BRANCHING OUT

ATLANTA'S BRIARIAN ARMS OF STEEL.

Another Development in Our Railroad Combinations—The Atlanta and Alabama Company Decides to Push Its Line Through to Birmingham.

It will be seen from the account of the meeting of the directors of the Atlanta and Alabama railroad company, that a new railroad is promised to our goodly city.

Truly, "it never rains but it pours." We hope that the new enterprise will move to its accomplishment hand in hand with Mr. Cole's roads and the Georgia Western. THE CONSTITUTION has never had—nor has the writer of this ever had—but one object, and that the advancement of Atlanta and of Georgia. It will be seen that Mr. Gordon feels just as we do about the matter. In answer to a dispatch announcing to him the action of the Atlanta and Alabama directors, he telegraphed late yesterday:

"All right. I hope the new road will be built. It will not interfere in the slightest with the Georgia Western, and the more roads Atlanta has the better for her. My arrangements are all completed." J. B. GORDON.

It is our earnest belief that the business of the coal fields will give the new projected roads all that they can handle, and we hope to see them built. With two roads to Macon, two roads to Chattanooga, and two roads to the coal fields, Atlanta will certainly have all the roads she can ever need. There has never been a race in or about Atlanta that will excite more interest than the race between the Georgia Western and the Atlanta and Alabama to the coal fields.

The Georgia Western.

A NEW FORCE OF HANDS FOR THE WORK—A GOOD TRADE WITH MR. COLE.

The work on the Georgia Western is moving steadily ahead, three surveying parties being in the field between Atlanta and Birmingham and two in the field in Mississippi. The grading is being done as rapidly as the survey will allow, and new hands will be added as they are needed. Mr. William Redd, Jr., reached the city yesterday with a force of 65 hands who went into camp near the fair grounds. They will get to work on Monday.

Mr. Gordon made for his company a most advantageous contract with the company that Mr. Cole represents some days ago. After a reconnoissance Mr. Cole decided that his Rome extension would run for nineteen miles parallel with the Georgia Western. He therefore opened negotiations with Mr. Gordon for the right to use the first nineteen miles of the Georgia Western as common track. Mr. Gordon agreed, the terms being that Mr. Cole should pay a certain amount of cash and should furnish and lay steel rails for the nineteen miles. The money has been paid, and the steel rails, we are authorized to say, are at Brunswick subject to Mr. Gordon's order whenever he is ready for them. At the end of the nineteen miles Mr. Cole's road branches off towards Rome, while Mr. Gordon's moves on towards Birmingham. This trade was a most advantageous one for both parties concerned, and obviates the building of the two parallel lines for nineteen miles, where one will be amply sufficient.

A rumor was put afloat on yesterday to the effect that Mr. Gordon had sold out his road to Mr. Cole—a rumor probably resulting from a misunderstanding of the above trade. Mr. Cole, to set all such rumors at rest, telegraphed the following from Macon on yesterday:

MACON, May 28.—I have not bought General Gordon's line to Birmingham. The general is confident of building himself. E. W. COLE.

In Mississippi a force of over a hundred men are working towards Birmingham and 20 miles of the road has already been graded. As soon as possible other forces will be put on both ends of the line and the work pushed ahead vigorously.

Our Two Roads.

The following dispatch was received by a gentleman last night in reply to a dispatch of inquiry:

NEW YORK, May 28.—In reply to inquiry you are authorized to publish that the organization of the Georgia Western is completed. The shares are all taken. Among the subscribers Hugh J. Jewett and associates have taken one million five hundred thousand dollars; the balance is in strong hands. Among the directors of the road are Hugh J. Jewett, president of the Erie railroad, Mr. Anderson, president Tredegar iron works of Richmond, C. H. Phinizy, president of the Georgia railroad, P. P. Dickinson, U. S. Grant, Jr., Ed Richardson, of Miss, and others. When the Atlanta and Alabama road is built, Atlanta will have two roads to the coal fields.

I will be in Atlanta in a few days. J. B. GORDON.

The Atlanta and Alabama.

THE COMPANY RESOLVES TO PUSH THE ROAD THROUGH.

The charter members of the Atlanta and Alabama railroad company met yesterday morning in Mayor English's office, having been called together by Mr. Anthony Murphy, who was president of the temporary organization under the charter.

After the meeting had been called to order Mr. Murphy, who has recently been to New York, said that he thought an immediate organization of the company desirable; that he was assured that the money necessary to build the road could be secured at once, and that he thought it advisable to open books of subscription immediately.

A motion authorizing the opening of books of subscription was adopted, and the meeting adjourned.

In accordance with the motion books were opened, and by 6 o'clock yesterday evening $500,000, the full amount required by the charter, had been taken by the following gentlemen:

Anthony Murphy, J F Cummings, H Castleman, S M Inman, J W English, Langston, Crane & Co, R C Mitchell, G J Foreacre, E P Howell, John Collier, L J Hill, Walker P Inman, Hugh T Inman, H E Cummings, J B Cummings, Atlanta; George W Perkins, W P Clyde, Frances Smith, New York; A C Haskell, Columbia, S C; W H Snowden, A S Buford, Joseph Bryan, T M R Talcott, T M Logan, Richmond, Va.

Then a permanent organization was effected by the election of the following officers:

President—A. C. Haskell, of Columbia, S. C.

Vice-President—G. J. Foreacre.

Directors—A. Murphy, W. H. Snowden, A. S. Buford, Joseph Bryan, J. M. R. Talcott, L. J. Hill, S. M. Inman.

Mr. Haskell, the first president of the Atlanta and Alabama road, is one of the leading railroad men of South Carolina. He is the present president of the Columbia and Charlotte railroad. At one time he was one of the judges of the supreme court of South Carolina, and is a gentleman of great ability and worth.

Mr. G. J. Foreacre, the vice president, is the former general manager of the Atlanta and Charlotte Air-Line. Long since he has thoroughly demonstrated his ability as a railroad man, and requires no indorsement at our hands.

The board of directors are all men of high standing. They live in Atlanta and Richmond. A glance at the names will be enough to convince all that they mean business.

We are assured that work will be begun at once and continued without interruption until the road reaches Birmingham, Ala. The money is in sight, and just as rapidly as men and money can be used the road will be built.

Gambetta at Home.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

PARIS, May 28.—Gambetta, speaking at the banquet at Cahors to-night, condemned the attempts to create antagonism between himself and President Grevy, whom he highly eulogized. Alluding to the constitution he admitted it was not perfect and would have to be perfected in a democratic sense but he warned against doing this hastily. He cited the precautions taken by the Americans in this respect and urged necessity of waiting.

Investigating the Horror.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

LONDON, Ont., May 28.—Inquiry into the circumstances attending the foundering of the steamer Victoria commenced to-day. The inquiry is undertaken at the instance of the Ontario government, which seems determined to have the fullest investigation. The evidence is of a conflicting character, but will reflect in a most damaging manner on the management of the lost steamer. The inquest was postponed to Wednesday.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Senator Brown is in better health than Governor Brown ever was.

Hoke Smith's success in late railroad suits has given him great prominence in the profession.

Mr. E. W. Cole made some heavy investments in Atlanta on his personal account during his late visit.

Mrs. Foster Blodgett invested $2,000 of the insurance money left by her husband in Georgia railroad stock at 60, and has at present prices trebled her money, besides drawing dividends regularly.

Mr. Carey W. Styles has gone to Texas at the call of the proprietors of the Galveston News, to take an editorial position on that paper. The Georgia press never had a stronger writer than Mr. Styles, or one more thoroughly at home with a pen in his hand, and the good wishes of his comrades of the press will follow him to his new home. The News will be proud of him.

A LIFE WORTH LIVING.

PURE AND WHITE AND GOD-GIVING.

Pen-Portrait of a Man Who Has Compassed the True Philosophy of Life, Whose Words and Deeds Vie Each Other in Their Golden Worth.

In the cosy president's room of the Metropolitan bank of New York may be found any day in business hours a gentleman bearing a remarkable resemblance to Mr. Justice Woods, of the supreme bench. Hearty, sincere, direct—without the slightest affectation—keen and decisive in manner—he will impress you at once as a successful man of affairs. But—his name? George I. Seney, one of the richest men in this country, and probably the foremost philanthropist we now have.

Mr. Seney is best known to Georgians as the gentleman who, without solicitation, contributed $50,000 each to Emory college and the Wesleyan female college, of this state. To New Yorkers and the north, he is best known as a great banker—as a promoter of great enterprises, second to few men, if any, and as an investor whose judgment is almost infallible.

Mr. Seney has given away in large amounts nearly one million dollars in the past year or two. Besides the $100,000 that he gave to the Georgia colleges, he has lately given $240,000 to establish a hospital in Brooklyn—that shall be open to the suffering of all races, color or creeds. He gave a short time before that $270,000 to Wesleyan university of Middletown, where he was at college when a boy. He says he remembered that they used to have a hard time there trying to keep the institution going, and he just thought he would make them easy. He has given $75,000 to the Long Island historical society with which they might purchase a library. He gave $20,000 in cash to an industrial home on Butler street in New York, "having learned that they were in trouble." These donations foot up $705,000, and there are others that might be added that would carry the amount to $1,000,000.

One of Mr. Seney's peculiarities is that he gives entirely without solicitation. Recognizing the fact that if he allowed himself to be argued or persuaded into giving for special purposes that he would have time for nothing but giving audience to delegations or petitioners, he has made this rule invariable that he will give nothing upon solicitation. This leaves him free to quietly look over the country himself, and decide without prejudice or bias where the money is needed, and there he puts it, without making any fuss about it. He has thousands of applications to which, of course, he cannot even give a reply. He has some schemes yet undeveloped, which he is quietly maturing, and which will result in great good when they are established, and will add heavily to the already immense sum for which the general public stands indebted to him.

I was talking with Mr. Seney one day and asked him how it was that he was giving so liberally, while he was yet so young a man. His reply was a profound one, while it was casually delivered.

"I have noticed," he said, "how rarely wealth brings happiness to its possessor. I have noticed that when a man begins to get rich, he feels under the influence of a greed and craving that rapidly outruns his power of acquisition. This money hunger takes possession of the man, it withers all his sensibilities, it dries up all the kindliness of his nature, it chills all warm impulses, hardens his heart, renders him unfit to fill his true functions to society, and do his full duty to his fellow men, and it makes him a wretched and miserable man. I have seen this greed for money canker the souls of so many good men, and carry astray so many kindly natures that I dreaded it more than I can express, and determined to let it get no hold on me if I could prevent it. The best way to kill it off in my opinion was to pursue the course that I have started on."

"There is one other point. You see I am giving you the selfish view of the matter," he added, laughing, "and that is this: After a man has accumulated a moderate fortune I have noticed that a surplus brings him little comfort. Let us suppose that he has a fortune of a million dollars. This will gratify every want that he can reasonably have, and fill the demands of his life. It gratifies every desire or inclination—and beyond this point a surplus can bring but one joy—and that is the consciousness of being able to do good to your fellow-man, and the knowledge that you are doing it."

How true are these reflections of Mr. Seney; and yet how few men have arrived at his conclusions.

It is this lesson that Mr. Seney teaches that is more valuable than his donations. How many men fall under the influence of this greed of which he speaks, and live and die in its blighting shadow. It will be worth while for any man who reads this article to look about him and see how many really rich men of his acquaintance are happy and contented men. He will see that the few he selects are men who have done good with their money—who have helped public enterprise, and dealt in private charity—who have fought off the miserliness that too often comes with wealth.

To illustrate, who will weigh the happiness of Peter Cooper, who at the close of a long and honorable life, meets death placidly and without a fear, and goes into the next world with the consciousness of having done his duty in this, with the life of a man who, having pinched and starved himself for years, crouches among his money bags at the approach of death, and finds the pangs of dissolution sharpened with the knowledge that he has never soothed a human sorrow or gladdened a human heart. Which has lived the happier life? To which has money bought the most joy? Which man leaves the best legacy to his children—the man who dies with the blessings of a people on his life and leaves a moderate fortune, an honored name and a beloved memory, or the man who leaves a mass of money and the taint of a selfish and miserly life?

But to return. In discussing the south Mr. Seney said:

"I think the tide of misrepresentation against the south by which the northern people have been kept blinded so long is reacting now on the men who started it, and to the benefit of your people. The slanders that are circulated about the south and its institutions, now that they are to be slanders, excite indignation among the best northern people, and by a compensating sense of justice, attract to the south the very sympathy and friendliness that they are intended to ward off. I know that this is the case with myself and with my friends. So that these slanders, instead of injuring your section, really benefit it—as will very certainly be shown. The time for deception has passed. The good people in both sections realize at least that the whole people yearn and hunger for a re establishment of the old sense of comradeship and sympathy—for a perfect spirit of amity and a thorough reconciliation—for a union strong and indissoluble in the ties of love and brotherhood. This I know to be the feeling of the best people of the north regardless of party prejudices, and this I feel sure is the feeling of the southern people. There is no work so noble or honorable as to wipe out all the scars of the late war, and as far as I am concerned nothing will give me greater pleasure than doing my duty hurriedly and earnestly in this direction."

Mr. Seney is an American of Americans. All his instincts and traditions are with this country. His grandfather, Joshua Seney, was a member of the last continental congress and the first federal congress, and a presidential elector in 1792. His grandmother was a daughter of Commodore Nicholson, and the Ferns, Gallatins and Montgomerys were connected with his family. His father was a Methodist preacher, and a leading member of the New York conference. The present Seney went into business early—entering the Metropolitan bank as teller about thirty years ago. His success in life has been steady and rapid. Indeed, it has come to be a saying in New York that "whatever Seney touches turns to gold."

His success is based probably on the simple fact that he has had confidence in the greatness of this country and has builded on it. Undeterred by temporary panic or depression he, has gone straight ahead with legitimate schemes of development and they have paid him the profit that comes to all men who have a steadfast faith in the national growth and prosperity and moves prudently and boldly to merit it. Among the notable enterprises with which Mr. Seney is prominently connected is the Ohio Central, with which he is connected largely—the Peoria, Evansville and Decatur road, in which he and Mr. Cummings, a rich Chicagoan have huge investments—the Erie and Western road, a long and promising enterprise—the New York, Chicago and St. Louis, which is capitalized at $30,000,000, and which is controlled by virtually the same men who control the Cole system, which is capitalized at $15,000,000. In these two enterprises alone, of which Mr. Samuel Thomas, of Ohio, and Mr. Seney are the controlling spirits, there is a capital of $45,000,000.

There is no man whose guarantee is better, or whose opinion is more respected than Mr. Seney's, consequently no man whose power for doing good is greater. Mr Cole stated in his speech at the banquet on Thursday night that he had from the best authority, "Mr. Seney's bank and railroad enterprises, and the money that directly or indirectly was invested under his suggestion or in his enterprises amounted to $158,000,000 last year." An evidence of his ability to command money in the great money capital of this country is shown in the fact that in less than forty-eight hours he secured $16,000,000 capital to invest in southern securities, of which none of the subscribers knew a single thing. The power of such a man to do good is simply incalculable, and it is a matter of congratulation that he has turned his attention to southern investments.

What his wealth is, is hard to say. Mr. McCracken, the superintendent of construction of the new roads of the system, remarked yesterday that Mr. Seney had cleared $9,000,000 in the past few years by his railroad schemes—according to the best report. His fortune is variously estimated to be from $12,000,000 to $20,000,000. It is certainly very large when he is able to give away nearly a million in bulk in one year without embarrassment. It is rapidly growing, as his enterprises are uniformly successful and he has unlimited capital at his back. He is only about fifty years of age and in the best of health, so that he has many years of usefulness ahead of him.

There are many lessons that may be learned from this life—so hearty, sincere, cheerful and prosperous. It teaches that a man may be liberal and at the same time grow rich; it teaches that a man may be a philanthropist and at the same time a capitalist; it teaches that money can buy no happiness like that which comes of doing good, and that the miser has no joy to live by and no hope to die with like that of the man who does his duty to his fellow-men—and above all, it teaches that a man may be a Christian and at the same time successful in business. It has come to be the saying—and many men excuse under this suggestion what they would otherwise condemn—that the ways of the world are so sharp and devious that a Christian must lay aside his nicer scruple when he goes out into active business. Through a long life, active all the time, involving huge schemes, and competition with the shrewdest men, Mr. Seney has carried his Christian character above reproach—stood by the principles on which his faith is founded—and brought honor and repute to the cause he represents. ## A CURIOUS STATEMENT.

How Republican France Does Business.

LONDON, May 28.—The Standard this morning publishes the following statement prominently: "Our Tunis correspondent wires that he was summoned to the telegraph office to receive the price of thirteen messages not forwarded. On inquiry he was told that the telegrams were dispatched from Tunis, but were stopped at Paris by order of the government."

The Standard makes the following comment: "If the explanation of the Tunisian telegraph official is correct, we have nothing to say except to congratulate the French republic on the incident which is worthy of the best or worst days of the second empire."

LONDON, May 28.—The Times this morning says: We understand that in consequence of recent events in Tunis, the porte has decided to write to the bey requiring an explanation of his sudden change of demeanor toward the sultan and the apparent leaning of his prime minister toward the French interests. The bey will be invited to state whether he still considers himself vassal of the Ottoman empire, and whether he is prepared to abide by the firman of 1871. If his answer is unsatisfactory the bey will be solemnly deposed and the Hussenite family deprived of the village of Tunis.

THE CHURCHES.

The Presbyterians and the Reformed Episcopalians.

NEW YORK, May 28.—This morning's session of the eighth general council of the Reformed Episcopal church was opened with the report of the general committee on appropriations and funds to be raised within the church. They reported that $7,781 had been appropriated at last night's session of the committee, and only $4,300 had been pledged. The amount was then made up. The long mooted and troublesome question of the catechism was brought up, as it has been for the last four years at every session without any definite result being attained. The main issue involved is that of eternal punishment, upon which the council cannot agree. The debate was in progress up to the time of recess.

At the afternoon session of the Reformed Episcopal council, the catechism committee retired for consultation and unanimously recommended the use of the larger catechism for the church and the smaller one for the children. Any other catechiser sent to the council will be sent to the committee on doctrine and worship. It was resolved to erect a monument in the cemetery at Baltimore to the memory of Bishop G D. Cummings, founder of the church. A committee of five was appointed to receive subscriptions. Bishop Cheeney said that no change affecting the doctrines of the church had been made by the council. Adjourned till Monday when an election will take place.

STAUNTON, VA., May 28.—After discussion of a number of minor reports the Presbyterian general assembly adjourned to meet in Atlanta next spring.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 28.—The ninth day's session of the Presbyterian general assembly opened to-day with service conducted by Revs. J. and M. C. Harris, of South Carolina, followed by Dr. Page, of Rochester. The committee on the next place of meeting reported Springfield, Illinois, as the place, and that the sermon be preached in the first church of that city, and the remaining sessions be held, if the assembly so vote, in the capitol building, according to the invitation of the governor and the legislature. The report was adopted.

Rev. R. W. Patterson, D D, of Chicago, presented the report of the standing committee on systematic benevolence. During the past year there has been an increase of three synods and 30 presbyteries organized, and acting, either on the assemblies' plan of benevolence or some other similar plan. This leaves only seven of our 38 synods, and 52 presbyteries out of 175, that are not known to co-operate with our plan. Two of the seven synods and fifteen of the fifty presbyteries are on foreign grounds. The boards of the church are all reported to have received increased contributions to their treasuries ranging from about $3,000 to $5,000 each, except the freedmen's committee, which has received $3,500 less than within the preceding year, but it suffered no decrease in the gifts of the church. The net increase of the contributions is upwards of $85,630. Almost all the regular causes of benevolence report balances in their treasuries. The number of collections from the churches has been increased by 694 within the year. Nearly 20,000 blanks remain to be filled by not-contributing churches. The cause of home missions received nothing from 1,728 churches, and that of foreign missions was treated likewise by 2,340 churches. Further organization is needed in the synods, presbyteries and churches. The report closed with a number of recommendations, among which was the following: That a permanent committee be enlarged so as to distribute its labor more wisely, and to suggest that Cleveland be its center, with ten persons as members of the committee, Arther Mitchell, C S Pomeroy, H McCracken, J W Cochrane, A T Pierson, Wm T Wilie, D P Eels, Archibald McClure, Wm Bakwell Thomas Kane, Waldo Carter and H C Noble.

The assembly at the conclusion of the morning session, adjourned until Monday morning.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 28.—The general assembly of the united Presbyterian church reconvened this morning. After the opening exercises, which were conducted by Moderator Carson, the committee on the revision of the book of selections, called "Bible Songs," reported their inability to agree. The resolutions were then adopted after considerable discussion, indorsing the undivided psalter now in use and removing the restrictions the last assembly placed on the board of publication by authorizing them to publish Bible songs to meet the demand of the church. The report of the board of church extension was next adopted, and an appropriation of $35,000 made for the coming year. The question of union of the united Presbyterian church with the associated Reformed church of the south then received attention, and it was resolved to empower the committee to consummate a union between the two churches with the understanding that neither church change its standard. The action of the committee will be referred to the next general assembly. The committee on bills and overtures recommended the submission of the question to the presbyteries, asking them if they desired to be overtured for the chapter allowing the use of instrumental music in the churches. This was laid over for the regular order on Monday morning, and the assembly adjourned. The session will last until next Wednesday.

TWO STORIES

TOLD BY THE RIVAL CHIEFS.

Conkling Restates the Origin of His Quarrel With That Man From Ohio, and Garfield Tells What He Knows of the Narragansett Pedestrian.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The Tribune publishes a detailed statement of the cause which led to the rupture between ex Senator Conkling and the president. It begins by saying that the exact position of the president in the controversy deserves to be carefully re-tated. The president was anxious that both shades and all shades of New York republicanism should be justly and generously treated. In the only conference he had with Mr. Conkling, after he was inaugurated, and following the appointment of ten of Mr. Conkling's supporters to important offices, the president suggested that he should proceed to make some appointments from the other wing of the party. To this Mr. Conkling replied with the most sneering contempt: "Well, send them abroad or give them some place outside of New York. I suppose I can hold my nose or retreat into the cloak room while I permit them to be confirmed."

Soon after this supercilious remark, the president nominated Judge Robertson for collector, and then began the fight on Mr. Conkling's part. He said Robertson should not be confirmed; he declared the president should withdraw him; he sent delegation after delegation of senators to the president to beg, to implore, to menace, to threaten. The president stood firmly to his position, without temper and without speaking a harsh word. His uniform and oft-repeated answer was about in these words: "Gentlemen, the senate has as perfect a right to reject Judge Robertson as I have to nominate him. It is your constitutional duty to advise me in regard to the appointment. If you think it a good one confirm it. If you think it a bad one reject it. I have no right to find fault with either conclusion you may reach; but I have the right to ask that you will advise me the one way or the other."

It was just here that Mr. Conkling's demand came in. He was not willing that the senate should act on the nomination at all; he demanded that it be withdrawn. In effect he declared that, in regard to the propriety of an appointment in New York, the president had no right to ask the advice of the senate as a whole, but only of the senators from that state. In other words, the president could nominate to the senate only such persons in New York as Mr. Conkling would give him permission to nominate. The president felt that to yield to Mr. Conkling's demand would be to surrender his constitutional power, neglect his duty, violate his oath, and bring discredit and dishonor on his high office.

When finally Mr. Conkling found he could neither move nor frighten the president, he resigned his seat in impotent rage, and then the senate, freed from Mr. Conkling's importunings and his obstructions, at once confirmed Judge Robertson without a dissenting vote. It was this unanimous advice of the senate that Mr. Conkling said the president should not have, and the president insisting on his constitutional right, Mr. Conkling sought to create a great sensation by resigning his seat.

During the several weeks that Judge Robertson's name was before the senate the president, as Mr. Conkling very well knows, declared over and over again to pretty nearly every republican senator that he resolved on appointing Judge Robertson before he left Mentor for Washington, and that Mr. Blaine had never written him a word in regard to it, nor had he an opportunity to suggest the appointment. But when Mr. Conkling reached Albany and found the president so strong and himself so weak, he sought to turn the tide by trying to arouse popular prejudice against Mr. Blaine for interfering with New York appointments. Mr. Blaine has never attempted any such interference.

ALBANY, May 28.—Mr. Conkling has told the story of the Robertson nomination and of the senatorial resignation many times since he came here. It is in substance as follows: He called at the white house with Mr. Platt shortly after the inaguration. They found the president overwhelmed with people, but they had a talk over matters in general. The president said: "I shall stand this rabble for a week, but then I shall stop it, settle down and go to work." The question of the New York custom house was then raised, and the president was asked whether he proposed to make any change there. The president said: "No, General Merrit has but one year to serve, and I think he may as well serve it out." Senator Conkling replied: "I think you are mistaken. I think you will find it is two years." They then canvassed the dates of General Arthur's supercedure, etc, and found that there were two years yet. This seemed to bring a change in the president's mind. They parted with an understanding, as Mr. Conkling and Mr. Platt regarded it, that if any change was contemplated they should be informed. The next thing Mr. Conkling knew of the collectorship matter was a paper laid on his desk bearing the words: "For collector, William H. Robertson." He went over to Mr. Platt and asked him if he had been consulted. He had not; neither had Mr. James. Then the representations detailed in the letter of resignation were made.

Mr. Conkling has also made the statement which will perhaps surprise some, that he did not approve of the union of the republican senators with Senator Mahone. He has stated here, in the most positive terms, that he advised against the alliance as unwise and likely to prove troublesome, but the administration favored it and he yielded his opposition. Yet when the Robertson matter came up the administration apparently did all in its power to embarrass the republicans in their union with Mr. Mahone, by constantly sending nominations and giving the democrats, every few days, fresh excuses for their demand to go into executive session. Mr. Conkling said that if there had been a clean docket the deadlock need not have lasted and the organization of the senate could have been completed.

But the most unexpected statement of all is that it was Mr. Platt who originated the policy of resignation. Mr. Conkling has told his friends that shortly before Judge Robertson was confirmed Mr. Platt assured him that an adjustment of the whole matter was near at hand. Mr. Conkling gave no hint as to what the proposed adjustment was. But soon after, and on the day which, at a later hour, the letter of resignation was written, Mr. Platt came into his room looking, as he said, "all gone." The promised adjustment had fallen through; the president had receded. Then Mr. Platt said: "I shall resign and state my side of this case in the senate next Wednesday." My informant states that Mr. Conkling said: "It has entered my head before to resign; if you resign I'll resign, too." Mr. Conkling added after a moment: "But you can't resign now and state your case next Wednesday; in the election of senators Tuesdays count. The legislature might have adjourned by Thursday, and it would be too late to fill the vacancy; the better way will be to write a letter and forward it at once. This was agreed upon, and Mr. Conkling shut himself in his room and then and there rapidly wrote the letter addressed to Governor Cornell. This, according to Mr. Conkling himself, is the history of the famous resignations.

A number of those who have talked with Mr. Conkling, report that he has no bitter words for any one except Mr. Blaine, who, he says, has been manipulating the press against him. He professed to have circumstantial evidence of Mr. Blaine's having acted as a deputy editorial writer for various newspapers.

——The Morning Express, which represents the Conkling section, this morning gives up all hope of securing a caucus. It says, "We have been over-ridden in this matter; the party has been over ridden. The prospects now are that in consequence of the withdrawal of enough names to reduce the signatures below the requisite number, that the republicans will proceed to vote without settling their party affairs by themselves."

——The Evening Journal makes the following classification of legislators on the senatorial question of the administration: Senate, 15; assembly, 43. Total, 58. The anti-administration: senate, 9; assembly, 31. Total, 40. On the fence: senate, 1; assembly, 7. Total, 8.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

BUFFALO, May 28.—The Commercial Advertiser, (republican), of this city, publishes to-day, an editorial acknowledging that Conkling made a great mistake in resigning his senatorship. The article briefly reviews Conkling's work in the party and points to his purity of character, etc, and urges that he be returned to the senate.

THE MISSING BONDS

Still Continue to Attract Public Attention.

Among other rumors floating around yesterday was one about those missing bonds.

Early in the morning a gentleman remarked to a CONSTITUTION reporter, "Those missing bonds have been found," but when the reporter endeavored to learn more his informant became exceedingly reticent. Finally the rumor was again struck and for some time followed successfully and then again lost.

Unwilling to give up without learning something reliable, the pencil pusher invaded the Gate City national bank, and reviewing the rumor to Mr. Hill, one of the receivers, asked him if it was true. To the query Mr. Hill politely declined to respond, saying that the court was the only party to whom he had any report to make.

Then Mr. Thomson, the other receiver, was interrogated. With that usual smile of his which presages a reportorial defeat, he said, "who told you the bonds were found?" "But are they!" again asked the reporter.

"When we are ready to tell you any discoveries we make, we will send for you. Until then I don't know anything," said the receiver, and turning to his desk he resumed his writing, apparently oblivious to the fact that an irate and defeated reporter stood in his room.

Although the rumor could not be verified, numbers of parties were found who believe the bonds have been found, but when, where, and how, no one knows. The rumor has a semblance of truth and may be truth.

In the superior court yesterday, Judge Hillyer was asked to grant an order authorizing the appointment of experts to examine the books of the bank. The petition will receive a consideration to-morrow.

Professor Moore, one of the experts who began an examination of the books, was questioned by a CONSTITUTION reporter yesterday. "Yes, we quit the work," said he, "because we were not paid."

"How far had you progressed when you discontinued your labors?"

"We had got to the stock and bond accounts when one of the assignees informed us that there were grave doubts about our pay and of course we stopped."

The Cornell Crew.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The Cornell university crew consisting of A H Cowles, of Cleveland, O; John Lewis, J G Allen, of Auburn, N Y; J N D Shinkel, of Rochelle, Ill; and J E Read, of Brooklyn, N Y, left for England to-day on the steamer England. They were accompanied from the St. Nicholas hotel to the steamer by a large number of friends who wished them success, and heartily cheered them as the vessel left her dock.

LONDON, May 28.—The Sportsman sharply criticises the decision of the stewards of the Henley on the Thames royal regatta excluding the Cornell university crew from participation in the contest.

The Denver Collision.

DENVER, Col., May 28.—The following particulars of a collision on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad is furnished by the Leadville Chronicle: At 7 o'clock this morning a construction train was backing north from Granite when the south-bound freight train suddenly rounded the curve and crashed into the caboose of the construction train containing twenty men, killing one and injuring ten others. The following is a list of the killed and injured: Patrick McMann, fatally injured; John Williams, head cut and leg broken; William Wright, leg broken in three places, and bruised; William Harrigan, leg broken and badly brused; injured, J.A. Kirby, leg broken and badly bruised about head; Ira A. Fry, head and thigh cut; John McFay, head; Pat Vaughan, bruised in side and back; A.C. Rush, bruised in back and side; Dennis Mahoney, slightly injured. Those fatally injured will probably not survive the night. The dead and wounded were removed to Leadville.

Nashville's Military Week.

NASHVILLE, May 28.—The military week of the exposition closed yesterday with a grand review by Major Clapp, of the Sixteenth United States infantry. Five companies competed, namely: Crescent Rifles, New Orleans; Bluff City Grays, Memphis; Porter Rifles, this city; Sumner Guards, Gallatin, and Howard Reserves, Lebanon. The prizes of the week were awarded as follows: Artillery target practice—first prize to Louisvill Battery; competitive infantry drill opened to the world—first prize to the Porter Rifles, this city; second prize, the Crescent Rifles, of New Orleans; competitive drill for companies never awarded first prize as prescribed—first prize to Bluff City Grays, of Memphis; second prize to Howard Reserves, of Lebanon; competitive drill of artillery—first prize to the Louisville Battery; second prize to the St. Louis Battery.

A Fool's Ambition.

CHICAGO, May 28.—John Griscomb, of New York, began his forty-five days' fast at noon to-day. Before that hour, in company with Dr. Tanner, several representative doctors and members of the press, he partook of a hearty meal in the Sherman house. When 12 o'clock arrived he ceased eating, and while the others continued at dinner he explained the nature of the fast he had undertaken, which is to be solely in the interest of science. He will not eat anything and will confine his drinking solely to pure water. Three rooms have been engaged for his use over the entrance to the Olympic theater. Drs. Harrison, Lyman, Haines, Danforth, Curtis, Jay, Reading and other well-known physicians have arranged to watch and attend the faster.

The New Italian Ministry.

ROME, May 28.—The new cabinet has been definitely formed by Signor Depretis as follows: Signor Depretis, president of the council and minister of the interior; Signor Mancine, minister of foreign affairs; Signor Magliane, minister of finance; Signor Zanandelle, minister of justice; Signor Baccarini, minister of public works; Signor Bacclessi, minister of instruction; Signor Berti, minister of agriculture; General Ferrero, minister of war; Vice-Admiral Acton, minister of marine. The ministry will take the oaths of office to-day. The ministry does not represent the union of the entire left, and will encounter considerable opposition.

An Experimental Shipment.

ST. LOUIS, May 28.—The contract has just been closed here for an experimental shipment of 30,000 bushels of spring wheat from St. Paul to Glasgow, Scotland, by barges to New Orleans, thence by steamer at the rate of 28 cents per bushel. If this shipment proves successful others will follow, amounting perhaps to a million bushels. Negotiations for this shipment were made through the St. Louis, New Orleans and European dispatch company and a through bill lading was given. A large lot of sacked flour has just been shipped from here to Liverpool, by river to New Orleans, at the rate of 50 cents per hundred, owing to the abundance of tonnage at New Orleans.

Conciliating the Clergy.

PARIS, May 28.—The chamber of deputies to-day discussed the army recruitment bill. Premier Ferry opposed the committee's clause compelling the seminaries to service for four or five years and low schoolmasters only one year. Mr. Ferry said that such an obligation would be a death blow to the clergy and particularly impolitic, when a community of ideas subsisted between the French priesthood and Genevans and a pacific pontiff enthroned at the vatican. The committee's clause was rejected and the bill adopted according to the government text of imposing one year's service on seminarians and school teachers alike.

Capturing Moonshiners.

DANVILLE, Va, May 28.—Special Deputy United States Collector W. S. Gravely has just returned from an expedition into Potomac county, where he captured five moonshiners' establishments, together with all their appurtenances, amounting to several thousand gallons of beer, a large number of wash tubs and copper stills. Other like establishments were found, whose appurtenances had been recently removed and which had been deserted by the occupants. No arrests were made, but warrants have been issued for four of the moonshiners, who are known to the officers.

The Port of Hamburg.

HAMBURG, May 28.—The senate has informed the house of burgesses of the arrangement concluded at Berlin and already sanctioned by Bismarck, which provides that Hamburg shall permanently remain a free port district for the purpose of the wholesale trade and export of products of industry. The incorporation of Hamburg with Zallverein will take place after October, 1882. The confirmation is given of a report that the maximum which it is proposed to sanction as the imperial share of the expense is 40,000,000 marks.

A Democratic Turn.

TROY, N. Y., May 28.—To-day one of the republican police commissioners was suspended by the mayor for malfeasance in office, and the board of commissioners immediately proceeded to select a police force largely democratic. The force is already on duty, and the action of Mayor Murphy gives general satisfaction. The city has been without a police or detective force since the second of this month.

Presidential Appointments.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The president to-day made the following appointments in the navy: Commodore James H. Spotts to be rear admiral to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Rear Admiral Stevens; Captain Samuel R. Franklin to be commander; Commodore I. N. Miller to be captain lieutenant commander; R. F. Harrington to be commander.

Telegraph Changes.

CINCINNATI, May 28.—It is announced that the resignations of G T. Williams, superintendent of the seventh district, with headquarters at Cincinnati, and of Frank A. Armstrong, manager of the Cincinnati office have been tendered to the present management of the Western Union telegraph company.

A Heavy Fire.

CINCINNATI, May 28.—A special from Kenton, this state, reports that a fire destroyed the Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western railroad depot, Franklin house, First Presbyterian church, German Lutheran church, Dugan house, Seymour Co's grain house, and two dwellings. Loss, $40,000.

Jeff Davis.

MONTREAL, May 28.—Mr. Jefferson Davis, ex-president of the southern confederacy, is in this city at present. His object in coming here was to get his new work copyrighted. He is looking well, and is much pleased with the wonderful improvements in Montreal since his former visit in 1866.

ALL AROUND US.

WHAT THE PEOPLE ARE DOING.

The News in and Around Macon—A Preacher Becomes a Lieutenant—Newspaper Consolidation—Disastrous Fire in Brunswick—Georgia Railroad Stock.

By Mail and Wire to The Constitution.

MACON, May 28.—I saw a letter last night from a prominent man in Washington that entirely changes the complexion of the situation of the postmastership of Macon. The letter said that Colonel Glover had to go, and that the race was now between Captain W. W. Brown and James B. Deveaux, colored, of Savannah, now holding a position in the treasury department in Washington, and that unless something was done for Brown the colored aspirant would reach the goal. This statement is corroborated by a letter received here a few days ago from Columbus, in which was the information that a colored man—mentioning no name—had written there for letters of indorsement for the Macon post-office. This turn of affairs puts Macon people on their mettle, as Deveaux is somewhat obnoxious to them, having figured somewhat in past political imbroglios, besides they will not tamely submit to the post-office being put in his hands. If this letter is founded on truth, and there is reason to believe that it is, then friends cannot save Colonel Glover. A petition to have him retained, covering several pages of signatures, has been forwarded to the president, and the support of Alexander Stephens is reported to have been given him. Deveaux has had an eye on some fat position in Georgia for some time, and places great reliance in his strength as a colored stalwart to carry his point. It is now quite likely that as soon as the report is verified, the business men will rise up as one man and ask Brown's appointment. No cause is given for thus taking Colonel Glover's name from the state. It is thought it was done for purely political reasons. His friends say that the reported new aspect of affairs is a trick to create prejudice; but in this they are endeavoring to play a trick themselves. Every indication points to a change in the office, and advices received later from men in position in Washington, who occupy sentry boxes of the president's own camp, make the matter a certainty.——The city council has at last succumbed to the entreaties of common decency and abolished Buckinghman Palace, a den of idle negroes, where black Terpsichore made Rome howl at night. The place has been in full blast for a year and has done lots toward demoralizing young men, but the council never had nerve enough to put it down until this week.——A new fire company is being formed from the "middling men"—boys over twelve and under twenty.——The first telephonic concert here will be given on Monday night at Bridges Smith's printing office.——

MADISON, May 28.—A solemn and sad warning to those who carelessly handle kerosene oil is presented by a pitiable object now lying at death's door, near here. Last night on the place of Mr. Hagg, six miles from Madison, the wife of Robert Billips, a very industrious colored woman, sat in her house sewing by an ordinary kerosene oil lamp. The rest of the family had retired, but this woman, seeking to finish her work, still sat plying her needle. Finding her lamp did not furnish sufficient light, she unscrewed the burner, and leaving the wick still burning, laid burner and burning wick near by and with the oil can began to refill the lamp. In the haste and carelessness of handling, the oil was spilt upon the table, and instantly a horrid flame shot up, enveloped the lamp, and following the stream, entered the can, and in a second it bursted, and the unfortunate woman was on fire. Dr. A. A. Bell, the attending physician, says that the poor woman is literally burned from head to foot and presents a most pitiable spectacle. Dr. Bell does not think that she can live.——Joe Davis, the negro shot by Special Bailiff Waller, is dead.——Mr. B. H. Overby, the assistant postmaster here, has resigned, and Mrs. D. S Johnston has been sworn in as assistant postmaster.——Dry, flying, stifling dust and hot, sudorific weather holds high carnival in Morgan. Rain we want.——A wedding on June 7th will be one of the fashionable events in Madison.

MILLEDGEVILLE, May 27.—This morning at 6:30 o'clock the Putnam Rifles, Captain Adams, arrived on the Central railroad and were met at the depot by the Baldwin Blues, under Captain Walker, and a Cadet corps of the M. G. M. and A. college, under Captain Cade, and escorted to the Baldwin Blues' armory. At 9 o'clock a.m. these three companys met at the M. and A. railroad depot the Floyd Rifles, Captain Hardeman, and the Macon Volunteers, Captain Carnes, and were welcomed by Hon. R. Whitfield, and responded to by Captain Hardeman. The battalion was formed, Colonel Wiley in command, and escorted through the principal streets, and 12 o'clock they brought up at Brake's opera-house where dancing was enjoyed till 1 o'clock, when dinner was announced and all the visiting soldiers and invited guests had as good a dinner as ever was set. Quite a number of visiting citizens from Bibb, Jones, Hancock, Washington, Wilkinson and Putnam were present. After dinner the dance was renewed and kept up till a late hour. Hon. J. H. Blount was among our visitors. A young lady was present wearing a silk dress worn by a bride on our streets twenty eight years ago—changed in color and make up, of course, from its former status——Mrs. J. M. Hall, relict of Mr J. M. Hall, who died about three weeks since, died day before yesterday—cancer the cause of both deaths.——Dr. Shinholser, a promising physician of our city is dangerously ill.——No rain yet.

GRIFFIN, May 28.—The Spalding Greys had a very enthusiastic meeting last night. Captain Huger W. Johnstone returned from Nashville yesterday and is determined to put the Greys on an equal footing with the best companies in the state. Rev. M. McN. McKay, pastor of the Presbyterian church here, was unanimously elected to the first lieutenancy last night. This is considered a big card for the company, and Lieutenant McKay will add a moral tone to it that few such organizations can boast. The grand encampment is assuming a tangible shape, and will be a success. Captain Bass's company is returning from Nashville in detachments. They did not enter for the prize, but a gentleman present said yesterday had they done so they could easily have swept the field. They lacked a few men.——There is a great scarcity of bacon on the market. A number of farmers are being greatly inconvenienced.

BRUNSWICK, May 26.—A disastrous fire occurred here last night, consuming the entire block of buildings opposite the custom house. The sufferers are O'Connor & Wenz, grocers and general merchandise; D. J. Dillon, hall and buildings; P. B. Holzendorff & Bro., grocers; W. B. Burroughs, general merchandise, and G. A. Macon, household effects. O'Connor & Wenz lose $3,000 in stock; insurance, $1,500. P. B. Holzendorff & Bro lose $1,500 in building and stock; insurance on the building $250; nothing on stock. W. B. Burroughs loses $2,500; fully insured. The fire originated in the rear of O'Connor & Wenz's store. Two fine pups and a pig were cremated in Holzendorff's store, there being no time to rescue them.

FORSYTH, May 28.—The district conference convened here Thursday, Rev J T Lowe preaching the introductory sermon Wednesday evening; Rev Mr Lovejoy delivered a fine sermon to a large congregation Thursday night; Rev A O Clark interested his hearers on the subject of "Liberality" Friday morning. The evening following Dr Haygood, with his accustomed eloquence, preached to a crowded house. Rev L J Davies will probably fill the pulpit to-day. It is feared that Bishop Pierce will not be able to preach at all. Many delegates and visitors are present; among the latter are Mrs T C Flick, of Macon, and Mrs L J Davies, of Barnesville.——Miss Pearl Stevens, who has been attending the Normal school at Nashville, was welcomed home yesterday.

MARIETTA, May 28.—The weather is exceedingly warm and the drought still continues.——Misses Hattie Camp and Carrie Whitlock, our representatives at the Augusta female institute, Staunton, Virginia, returned home yesterday via the Air-Line railroad.——W. H. Sparks and wife are stopping in our city at the Whitlock house.——Our farmers fear great scarcity of hands this summer, necessary to work the growing crop, on account of the large amount of railroad work that will soon be offered them, probably at prices beyond their control.——The quantity of fertilizers is greatly in excess of any preceding year; besides large quantities of provisions have been purchased by most of our farmers on time.

GRIFFIN, May 28.—Yesterday evening Mr. W. B. Conyers, of Carrollton, while out hunting, placed his gun with the muzzle under his shoulder, making a rest, when by some means the barrels were discharged, the shot tearing right through the shoulder, producing a frightful wound. At last accounts the young man was considered dangerously wounded, though he may possibly recover.——The absence of meat in our market has made the farmers clamorous. I understand to-day that meat intended for Griffin has been carried through by the Central road. Not a pound of meat or a bushel of corn in town.——Weather hot, dry and windy. Rain a lost quantity.

CHATTANOOGA, May 28.—The boiler of a locomotive of the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad exploded in this city at 6:30 o'clock this morning, on account of an over pressure of steam. Fireman Charles Handegan was blown a distance of fifty yards and instantly killed. The engineer, who had just stepped behind the tender, escaped injury. A piece of iron weighing nine pounds was thrown half a mile and struck J. C. [illegible], car inspector of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad, on the shoulder, traversing the entire breadth of the trunk and causing instant death. Another piece of iron weighing 200 pounds passed through two cars loaded with corn, and then struck and knocked down the corner of a house.

CONYERS, May 28.—The Rockdale superior court has been in session the past week. No very important cases were disposed of.——Our new jail had its first boarder this week. He looked quite comfortable in his new quarters.——The Primitive Baptists are holding a general meeting here now. The Stone Mountain association—missionary Baptist—are holding their meeting at this place also.——Mr. Joe Almond, a worthy young man of this place, died and was buried Monday last.

EASTMAN, May 27.—Pursuant to adjournment of the May term of court his honor, Judge Pate, was here yesterday to hear the motion for a new trial in the equity case of M. B. DeVaughan vs. William Pitt Eastman, et al., and which was decided in favor of complainants. Upon hearing the motion it was ordered that a new trial be refused, and the case goes up to the supreme court. Messrs. R. K Hines and C. C. Kibbee were also here to argue the motion.

ELBERTON, May 28.—The Gazette and the Elberton News have been consolidated, and will be published under the name of the Gazette and News. Messrs. J. T. McCarty and G. C. Grogan are to be the editors.——Gardens and small grain crops are suffering severely for rain.

NEW YORK, May 28.—A dispatch from Coketon, Alabama, says: George Griffin, colored, has been sentenced to be hanged in the jail yard on July 1st, for an outrageous assault on a white woman in August last.

What the Papers Say.

The Macon Belated.

On Tuesday last a novel contract was entered into by Colonel William B. Johnston and General Toombs. In Ripley & Solomon's office quite a party of railroad men were gathered, among them General Toombs. The general, in his usual way, declared that Georgia railroad stock would not be worth 140 in six months, and offered to furnish any one with 1,000 shares, sellers' option at that figure, in six months. Colonel Johnston stepped up and agreed to take the shares at that figure, and upon the terms named. General Toombs stated that he would not make any such contract unless $40,000 was put up as a margin. Colonel Johnston told him the money would be put up in the morning. Yesterday he wrote General Toombs designating the bank where the sum was deposited, and asking a like arrangement. It remains to be seen whether or not General Toombs will stick.

Barnesville Gazette.

Last Saturday afternoon a most shocking death occurred on the premises of Mr W. H. H. Bush, in Monroe county. The facts, as we get them, are about as follows: Peter Perdue, a colored man, went down into Mr. Bush's well to clean it out. While doing so, the pressure behind the curb, caused from the dirt caving in, bursted the curb in, and the broken side was pressed to the opposite side, after the manner of a clamp, and Peter was caught between the two walls of the curb in a standing position. This occurred Saturday, and he remained in this position till Monday morning, when Gabe Murphy, a colored man who is a well cleaner in Barnesville, went down the well and extricated the body of Peter from the grave of mud and water. The dirt and mud had covered the body to the shoulders, leaving the head and neck uncovered. The water had risen several feet above Peter's head, but Gabe drew it off, and succeeded in getting the remains out of the well.

Columbus Enquirer.

Yesterday the news reached this city of one of the most horrible tragedies that has occurred in this section of the country for a long time. The particulars as our reporter obtained them from a physician who attended the unfortunate young man, is substantially this: In the neighborhood of Pineville, in Marion county, lives M. William Savel, and with him lives his nephew, James Holloman, a young man about grown. Mr. Savel has a mule on his place which cannot be ridden except with a saddle, or when caparisoned with gear of some kind. Yesterday, Mr. Holloman geared up the mule and started to ride it. The mule threw him off and as he fell one of his feet caught in the gear some way and he was dragged for half a mile. He was badly hurt in the back and side and several ribs were broken. On many portions of the body the skin was worn entirely off. The mule also gave him several kicks which gave him serious injuries. It is strange to say that his arms, his head and face were not in the least hurt, only one little bruise being on his cheek. His wounds are of a very serious character, and the physician and his friends are alarmed at his condition. A day or two will further develop the injuries received, and it is hoped that he may yet recover, though the chances are very much against him. He is a son of Mr. William Holloman, who lives in Webster county.

Fort Gaines Tribune.

On Wednesday afternoon, just about sundown, Major W. J. Bethea was brutally murdered by a negro named Matt Butts. The fearful tragedy occurred on Mr. J. R. M. Saunders's Sutlive place in Early county, and the following are the circumstances of the killing as reported to us: Major Bethea was employed by Mr. Saunders as manager of the place, and he ordered the negro Matt Butts to cut up some oats to feed the stock. Butts replied: "I be damned if I do." Major Bethea replied "you shall do it," and the negro Butts cursed him. Major Bethea then struck at him with a stick and the negro stabbed him to the heart, killing him almost instantly. He walked a few paces and fell dead. The negro remained on the place some time after the killing, but finally left and has not been arrested. The news of the murder reached this place on Thursday morning and created considerable excitement. Major Bethea is well known to our citizens as a Christian gentleman, and his sad death is much regretted. He leaves a wife and four small children. We learn that a posse of ten or a dozen men are in pursuit of the murderer, and we trust that he will be captured. Butts is said to be a man of bad character—turbulent, hard to control and a perfect tyrant among people of his own color.

Athens Banner.

The police force of Athens keep well posted about the crimes committed in various parts of the country and are ever on the alert to catch up with fugitive criminals. One of their latest captures, however, was rather a surprise. Officers Holcombe and Cain had been notified that a negro had run away from Mr. Young's place in Greene county, and they thought he was in Jackson county. Accordingly, they went down a day or two ago to Mr. Ferd Hardy's place and told him who they were after. Mr. Hardy remarked that he had a negro working for him that he had recently hired and he would bring him up, that they might see and question him. The officers hid themselves, and when Mr. Hardy came up with the negro, they nabbed him, but it was not the bird they were looking for. It turned out, though, to be an equally valuable one. As soon as the negro found he was in the hands of officers he thought they were looking for him and voluntarily began a confession that surprised the officers and all who heard it. He owned to being Joe Harris, one of the three convicts who recently murdered Mr. Langston, the guard, on the McWhorter place, in Greene county. Of course he was wanted and the officers proceeded to secure him firmly. The tale told by Joe is as follows: He says that he and the other two, Jim Allen and Willis Winn, had made a plot to whip Langston, but not to kill him. The way in which they were to carry it out was that they should neglect their work and get up a quarrel with him. Accordingly, instead of hilling up the corn properly they merely scratched over the ground. Langston came up and said they were not doing it right. He threupon laid down the gun and took hold of Joe's hoe to show him how to do, and while thus engaged Jim Allen struck him back of the head with his hoe, felling him to the ground. Willis Winn jumped on him and called to Joe to bring the gun, He (Joe) did bring it, when Jim Allen took it from him. At this stage Joe says he turned away and had gone a few steps when he heard the report. In a short while Jim Allen caught up with him and told him what had been done, and said they must hurry on and get across the river. Joe says he was known over the river and would not go, but turned in the direction of Athens. When he got near Watkinsville a negro cut his shackles from him, and he came here and stayed a little while in the upper part of the city. While there he met Mr. Hardy and made a contract to work for him. He thought when the police officers took hold of him, that he was the one they were after and hence in his fright, made the confession. Joe was brought to this city and lodged in jail. The officers deserve much praise and a reward for capturing him. We understand that the reward offered by the governor is for Jim Allen, the negro who did the shooting, and he is still at large. Joe says he told him he was going to South Carolina, and he is probably in that state now. Joe will be turned over to the proper authorities.

TWO WIVES.

The Daughter of The Sheriff of DeKalb County the Victim of a Bigamist.

J. T. Buchanan, station-house keeper, has brought to light a crime which renders two homes desolate and fills another convict garb.

Tuesday last one week ago John W. Follansbee, an Atlanta resident, married Miss Hunter, of Decatur.

The marriage was opposed by the young lady's father, but with a fidelity that actuates woman in such matters, Miss Hunter disobeyed her father, and thereby wrecked her life.

Follansbee came to Atlanta in 1875 and soon found employment with Longley & Robinson, on Decatur street. To his associates he said that he came from Fon du Lac, Wisconsin, and that he was a married man.

In '76 Longley & Robinson discharged Follansbee. He went to Cherokee county where he remained until January last. Then he went to Decatur, where he entered the governmental service. During his abode there he met Miss Hunter, and after a short courtship was married. The marriage was published in THE CONSTITUTION, and thus Follansbee's crime leaked out. Mr. Buchanan happened to be an associate of Follansbee during his service with Longley & Robinson, and when he read the wedding notice, remembered that Follansbee had told him that he was married. At once communication was opened with Fon du Lac and evidence of the truth of Follansbee's statement to Buchanan secured.

About 5 o'clock Mr. Buchanan, with this information to support him, procured a warrant charging Follansbee with bigamy, and went immediately to his boarding house on Marietta street. Follansbee and his wife were out and the officers remained until 2 o'clock this morning, when the couple returned. As they entered the yard the officers approached and arrested him. To Mr. Buchanan's remark "you are my prisoner," Mrs Follansbee asked why he was arrested. Mr. Buchanan said, "Mr. Follansbee can tell." Turning to the man who has made two lives miserable she said, "why are you arrested?" but Follansbee declined to answer. Finally Mr. Buchanan informed Mrs. Follansbee that her husband (?) had a wife and five children in Fon du Lac, Wis. This intelligence staggered the lady and rendered her speechless for a short while, but soon realizing her ruined condition, the lady rallied, and in plain language denounced the scoundrel, but when the officers started off with their prisoner she relented and begged for his freedom.

Follansbee is in the city prison awaiting the penalty of his crime. He is about 5 feet, 4 inches high, weighs 140 pounds, is about 45 years of age, well educated and decidedly good looking. He takes his arrest quietly and assured his last victim that all would come out right.

The lady, who is thus rendered an object of pity, is the daughter of James Hunter, sheriff of DeKalb county, and is related to some of the best families in Georgia. She is about nineteen years of age, and was quite a society favorite. She was well known in Atlanta, where she was highly respected and esteemed. She married Follansbee against the will of her father and friends. That the scoundrel is thus brought to justice is due solely to the untiring energy and exertion of Mr. James Buchanan.

A Fatal Shooting Affray.

LOUISVILLE, May 28.—George Riley shot and fatally wounded Anthony Domas yesterday. Both men were employed in the Louisville and Nashville railroad blacksmith shop. Riley threw a piece of coal at Domas, and being asked by Domas to stop drew a pistol and shot him. Riley was drunk but managed to escape.

OF THE DESERTED FEDERAL CAPITOL

An Important Senatorial Executive Discussion Leaks Out—Mr. Stephens's Departure for Home—Secretary Blaine's Anxiety to Manufacture Notoriety.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The discussion which attended the consideration of the nomination of Glenni W. Scofield, of Pennsylvania, to be judge of the court of claims, in executive session, is reported to have been of a highly interesting nature. Mr. Butler, of South Carolina, took strong grounds for a better representation of the south. The predecessor of Scofield was a southern man. Mr. Scofield should have been rejected if only for the reason that he was a northern man, a section already overwhelmingly represented in the machinery of the general government. Mr. Butler took the stand that the president should know no north and no south, and justice demanded that the place vacated by Hunt should be filled by the appointment of another southern man. Mr. Hill, of Georgia, vigorously supported Senator Butler, showing by the statistics on the subject that the discrimination against southern men and southern interests was characteristic of successive republican administrations. The great sugar interests, cotton interests, tobacco interests are practically unrepresented in the government. While the north and west monopolize all the offices, the south is left out in the cold. Brown, of Georgia, followed Hill and declared that of the 38 states in the union, but 22 are represented in the administration of the general government. He could see no reason why officers of the government should be selected from one section to the exclusion of the rest. There was no objection to Scofield personally. It was wholly because of the bad policy of packing the national courts with northern men with northern prejudices to the deprivation of the south of her fair share in the administration of national affairs.

——In diplomatic circles the action of Secretary of State Blaine in making a formal protest against the decision of Count Lewenhaupt, the umpire of the Spanish American claims commission, in the Buzzi case, is considered of very momentous import, and as involving possible results of great consequence. Mr. Blaine, in his protest, clearly intimates that unless the umpire reverses his decision in this case, no more cases of contested citizenship shall be submitted to the commission. It is not believed that there is the slightest probability that the umpire will reverse his decision in this case; indeed, it is said Mr. Blaine knew that for various reasons the decision could not be reversed. The belief is that this protest of Mr. Blaine is the initial movement of a plan which he has determined upon to break up the commission. The result of the disruption of the commission would be to remand all the claims of American citizens against Spain to the care and jurisdiction of the department of state. Then Mr. Blaine would have the opportunity to open up a correspondence with the Spanish government, which, it may be assured, he would conduct in a lively and vigorous style. The theory in diplomatic circles is that Mr. Blaine wants to get hold of some issue or point of contest which may serve to make his administration of the state department remarkable in the annals of the republic, and his opportunity may be found in bulldozing Spain and bringing that government down on its knees to the United States. This idea is also entertained in a large degree by the friends of Mr. Blaine and the admirers of his aggressive temperament. For more than a generation past there has been quite a strong popular sentiment in the United States that the state department, in conducting negotiations with Spain growing out of the differences between the two countries, has dealt with that government too gingerly, and a change of policy in this respect, Mr. Blaine may calculate, would meet with popular approval. This may be so, but it is said by jurists and diplomats that the position assumed by Mr. Blaine in the Buzzi case is untenable in both national and international law. This being the case he could not expect any enduring renown to accrue from bullying a weak government like Spain, although it would undoubtedly be a satisfaction for him to bully something.

A question that bids fair to be a difficult one for decision by the French-American claims commission has been disposed of by the withdrawal of the claims for property destroyed during Maximillian's wars in Mexico. The treaty was so worded that claims for loss of property of Americans upon French territory, possessions or dependences, were to be heard. It was contended by the French government that Mexico under the late empire was not a French dependency, and was never intended to be. It was conceded that probably French troops did destroy some property of American citizens in Mexico, but they did it under the government there, and as soon as they heard they were not under the direction of France, and the latter country was not responsible, Secretary Blaine took the matter under consideration and it was made a matter of diplomatic correspondence, which resulted in the withdrawal of the claims, as above stated, upon the ground that they were not eligible under the treaty.

——The Hon. A. H. Stephens, who left for Georgia last week, though much attached to his home and old friends and neighbors there, always feels more or less depressed in departing from Washington. An incident is recalled of his departure after congress adjourned in March, 1859. He had declined a renomination to congress because he foresaw, with regret, the trouble coming, and said he did not wish to be here when the crash came. As he was going down the river those about him noticed that he followed with his eyes as long as possible the dome of the capitol. "You are looking at that, I suppose," said some one, "thinking of the time when you will return here as a senator."

"Not at all," answered Mr. Stephens "I am taking farewell of it, knowing I shall not see it again until I am brought here a state prisoner." This was literally fulfilled in the latter part of October, 1865, when he passed through here a paroled prisoner, on his way home, after spending five months in Fort Warren.

——Secretary Windom will probably decide to offer a new bond to holders of the 5's sent in too late for continuance. If the same bond should be returned it is feared that it might give the holders trouble. The blank is filed on the back, assigning it to the secretary, and this would of course have to be cancelled to restore it properly to the owners. Then it would look like a bond that had been tampered with, and would undoubtedly excite suspicion, or at least make explanation necessary. The new bond will be exactly like the one sent in, except the number will be increased. Bonds still continue to come in, some of them having been mailed in time, but more of them not.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—S. H. Phelan, of the Gate city cotton exchange, went up to Chattanooga yesterday.

—Mrs. M. H. McPherson is visiting her sister Mrs Elam Johnson, 119 Ivy street.

—Miss Alice Hixon, who has been visiting relatives in Atlanta, has returned home.

—H. Castleman and family are stopping for the summer at the Leyden house, on Peachtree street.

—M. Cunningham, one of the Ohio excursionists who were here several days ago, has returned to his home. During his stay here he made many friends.

—Blair Ballard, who was accidentally hurt in Tennessee, a few days ago, is rapidly recovering, and strong hopes are entertained that he will be out again in a short while.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jim Thomas have returned home from Florida. The beauty and accomplishments of Mrs. Thomas made her quite a favorite in society in Tallahassee.

—R. H. Knapp, the junior councilman from the second ward, went to Cartersville yesterday. During his sojourn in that city he will advocate the adoption of his cow ordinance.

—Miss Mary McGill, who is well known here, is now in the city, and is soon to give recitations in elocution, which will be highly enjoyed by all who may have an opportunity to hear her.

—Mr. James M. Stephens, of the Atlanta office of the Western Union telegraph company, is one of the most accomplished operators in the country. It is a pleasure to deal with such a gentleman.

—Professor W. H. Crogman, of Clark university, will lecture at the capitol in the hall of the house of representatives on to-morrow (Monday) night, May 30, for the benefit of the Abyssinian library. Professor Crogman is one of the first graduates of the Atlanta university in 1876, and has since held the position of professor of mathematics and Latin in the Clark university.

TWO BU...

PENETRATE OSCAR JONE...

And Will Probably Produce Death—A White Man and a Negro Create a Sensation on Marietta Street—The White Man Skips—The Full Particulars.

James Chastain shot and dangerously wounded Oscar Jones near the rolling mill last night about 8 o'clock.

From what particulars THE CONSTITUTION reporters could glean, it appears that Chastain got aboard a street car as it was passing through Brooklyn, and as he entered the car stepped upon Jones's foot. This caused some words to ensue and a quarrel, which came near resulting in blows, followed. When the car reached Chastain's house, corner Marietta and Simpson streets, he got off and, going in, took his pistol from a trunk and again boarded the car, when the difficulty was renewed. When near the rolling mill Jones got off the car and picked up a rock, with which he threatened Chastain. Chastain then jumped from the car, when Jones threw the stone, striking Chastain in the breast. Stooping down, Jones picked up the second stone, but as he rose Chastain fired two shots, each of which took effect, both inflicting dangerous, probably fatal, wounds. One ball entered the body just to the left of the navel and ranging to the left lodged just under the skin in the small of the back; the other entered the body just below the left shoulder and passing through, stopped under the skin.

Immediately after the shooting Jones was removed to his home near Payne's chapel, where he is now lying in a critical condition. Surgical aid was promptly secured, but the physicians entertain grave doubts as to Jones's recovery.

As soon as Chastain saw the effects of his pistol bullets he skipped out, and up to the time THE CONSTITUTION went to press had not been apprehended. Chastain is a young man, a former member of the Atlanta police force and has borne a good character.

Jones is a negro man, by trade a carpenter, and is said to be a quiet and hard worker. There were several person present when the shooting occurred, but in their version there is variety. Some say that Chastain was justified while others denounce his conduct.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.

Organization of the Gate City Street Railroad Company.

Mr. John Stephens furnishes THE CONSTITUTION the following article:

The stockholders of the above named company met on yesterday at the office of Messrs Reinhardt & Osborne, in the Centennial building, on Whitehall street, for the purpose of electing a board of directors, which was done. A strong board was elected, amongst whom we may mention Mr Milton B Weed, of Norman & Weed, Mr L DeGive, Mr L B Nelson, of Nelson, Barker & Co, Mr A M Reinhardt, of the law firm of Reinhardt & Osborne, is also one of the directors. At a meeting of the board, held after the adjournment of the stockholder's meeting, Mr Weed was elected president of the company, and Mr John Stephens secretary and treasurer.

Thus another enterprise is started in Atlanta which, if fostered and sustained as it should be, will be of great advantage to the whole city. It will quadruple the taxable and market value of a portion of the property along the route, will open up for location of residences the most desirable portion of the city, and a portion which has been neglected heretofore, and if finished by September next, will add much to the ability of the city to accommodate the visitors to the cotton exposition. We trust that the city council and county commissioners will render such aid in the way of opening the streets along the proposed line as may be necessary to insure the completion of this road in the shortest time possible.

BEING TRIED.

Joe Edwards Attempts to Sell a Check and Gets Into Trouble.

Joe Edwards, was yesterday arraigned before a trial justice. A few evenings since Edwards attempted to sell a check to a Decatur street gentleman. The check was drawn by Mr. Robert Toombs, and was payable to William Gaines, a Kimball house porter, and called for $180. Edwards's action induced the gentleman to whom he was trying to sell the check to think his title thereto not good. The police were notified and Officer Crim was detached to watch the affair. Edwards's frequent endeavors to sell the check finally caused his arrest and detention. He claimed to be acting for another party. The case will be concluded to-morrow.

A SUPPOSED BURGLAR.

Jake Reese alias Jake Whidby Charged with Burglary.

Jake Reese alias Jake Whidby, was yesterday arrested by Officer White. It is said that Reese is the party who burglarized Mr. Brumby's house on Pryor street night before last. None of the missing articles were found in Reese's possession yet the evidence against him is strong, and in all probability will cause his committal. The arrest was made early yesterday morning at the station-house. Reese had been in the recorder's court room and was just leaving when he was pointed out to Officer White. He denies ...

A motion to petition for a law authorizing the road commissioners to appoint one overseer, with not more than two assistants, was passed.

A motion to petition for a law to compel the road commissioners to proceed against defaulters within fifteen days after the working of the roads was passed.

After which the meeting adjourned.

Larceny from the House.

About 8 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs. Rollins's store, on Marietta street, near the rolling mill, was robbed of a small sum of money. During the temporary absence of Mrs. Rollins Bright Swain, a negro man, entered the store, and going behind the counter secured about five dollars. Soon after the theft was committed Officer Lawson was notified. At once he began tracing Swain, and about ... o'clock found him at a picnic near the fair grounds, where the arrest was made. Subsequently Swain was taken before Judge Pitchford, where he was tried upon the charge of larceny from the house, and in default of bond committed to jail.

In Europe.

Mr. O. C. Fuller and bride left New York yesterday for Europe, where they will spend the next two months.

Mr. Fuller is one of Atlanta's most promising young business men and has a bright future before him. Mrs. Fuller, nee Caswell, has reigned queen in Atlanta society from infancy. She is a lady whose many good qualities make her the pride of a large circle of friends. Their return to Atlanta will be gladly welcomed.

...onstitution

...history has a reliable, first-class ... been so essentially needed by the Sou... people as at present.

Never has THE CONSTITUTION been as thoroughly equipped and so fully prepared to furnish such a paper as at present.

With telegraphic service unequalled by any Southern paper, with trained Correspondents in every locality in which its readers are interested. With a capable Editorial Staff, a corps of efficient Reporters, and the best of "special" contributors, THE CONSTITUTION can promise to its readers that it will be better than ever before, and will confirm its position as the leading Southern newspaper.

While THE CONSTITUTION will carry the general news of the day, and express its opinions frankly on political topics, it will devote special attention to the development of Southern resources in all legitimate channels or directions.

Every Georgian and every man interested in Southern enterprise and growth should read THE CONSTITUTION in one of its editions.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 29, 1881.

It is now thought that they will endeavor to keep up the threatened deadlock until a point of exhaustion is reached when all will be willing to let the matter go to the people and the next legislature. This would restore the state to the democrats, and enable them to send two honest and valuable senators to Washington to assist in the work of watching the administration and of nullifying the Mahone compact.

The Revised New Testament.

The great body of the public is uncritical, and it may, therefore, be expected that a large majority of the changes made in the revised version of the New Testament will be received with a sort of protest, particularly on the part of those who have an opportunity of comparing the two versions. Indeed, a protest has been heard from those who cannot fairly be called uncritical, and already the charge is made that the committee of revision have tampered with a great English classic without materially improving it. This charge is heard from both the sectarian and the newspaper pulpit; and yet, with the exception of the changes that have been made in a few familiar texts, the average congregation will be unable to say whether the preacher is reading his lesson from the revised or the authorized version.

It is impossible at this time, however, to predict the extent of the protest or to adequately measure its effect. The authorized revision now in use superceded the Geneva Bible only after a controversy that extended over a great many years, and its general adoption was due to the fact that the plates of the Geneva Bible gradually wore out, rather than to any preference on the part of the public. Such is the force of habit and association. The revised version will in all likelihood take the place of the authorized version, (1) because the changes are so carefully made that they do not produce any very serious mental shock, and (2) because, in the natural order of things, the revised version will gradually displace the old version.

In the meantime, the New Testament will attract additional attention, and the controversy that is bound to spring up have a wholesome effect. It will surprise those who are not critically familiar with the history of the New Testament to learn that there are no less than one hundred and fifty thousand various readings in that division of the scriptures. This would be alarming if any large proportion of these differences was material but this is not the case. That there are so many various readings is due to a very fortunate fact, namely: that there are multitudes of independent copies of the New Testament, which enables biblical scholars to determine the original text with a degree of certainty almost absolute.

These manuscript copies which are at the service of scholars are divided into two classes. Those in which capital letters are employed throughout, with no distinction between the beginning or ending of words or sentences, have been styled Uncials. Those written somewhat in the form common at the present day are called Cursives. The Alexandrian Manuscript is a very complete copy of the Greek scriptures. In this manuscript the Book of Revelations is preserved entire. It is attributed to the fifth century. Some have supposed that it had its origin in Egypt, but this is not definitely settled.

The Vatican Manuscript is regarded by biblical scholars as a most interesting and precious manuscript. It was not fairly accessible until 1868, when an edition was published in fac simile and with the greatest care, under the auspices of Pope Pius the Ninth. Scholars date the Vatican Manuscript in the fourth century, and some claim for it even a greater antiquity. The Ephraem Manuscript is what is known as a palimpsest—a manuscript in which one work, in order to economise parchment, is written over another. It was only in 1834 that the sacred text was rendered legible by means of a chemical preparation, and since then the manuscript has been published. It is not complete. The Manuscript of Beza was found in an old monastery at Syrus. The Siniatic Manuscript was, in fact, found at the convent of St. Catherine on Mount Sinai in 1844, and in 1859 the entire manuscript was recovered. This manuscript was published in 1862. It possesses the advantage over all other manuscripts of embodying the New Testament complete. It also contains the Greek text of the epistle of Barnabas.

These are the most important of the Uncial manuscripts. The Cursives are less important, for the reason that they lack the element of antiquity. These manuscripts were not, for the most part, within reach of the translators of the authorized version, but they have been made the basis of the changes given in the revised version. No doctrine of faith has been changed, and it may be said that in all important respects the New Testament remains practically unaltered. It is natural to suppose, however, that some of the changes will be resisted; but the revision, whether it is adopted at once, or after a long and heated controversy, will accomplish great good in renewing among the people a comparative and critical study of the scriptures, and any event which can bring this about on so grand a scale must mark an era in the history of revealed religion.

The Atlanta and Alabama Railroad Company.

A strong company was organized yesterday, as will be seen by proceedings published in another column, to build a road from Atlanta to Birmingham, Alabama, under the charter granted by the last legislature. A strong company, composed of citizens of Atlanta, Columbia, S. C., Richmond, Va., and New York, are backing this company, and while only five hundred thousand dollars was subscribed yesterday, the amount necessary to organize under the charter, all the money required to build the road and equip it in first class style is at hand and ready to be used. Our citizens may congratulate themselves that men who have never failed in any undertaking have this road in hand, and we promise that it will be finished to Birmingham just as soon as any road can be built that distance. The road will not conflict with Colonel Cole's system, nor with General Gordon's Georgia Western. The importance of this line is so great that we are not surprised to find so many rival companies trying to penetrate this territory. A distinguished railroad man said not long ago that a railroad from Atlanta to Birmingham, Ala., would be the best paying road in the United States. When we consider the various products along the line of gold, iron, coal, copper, cotton, corn, wheat and timber, it will be seen that the local business will be immense, besides this, the Southern Pacific will be finished soon, and regular trips all the year round, from the Mississippi to the Pacific over this line, will bring freight and passengers from the western world to build an outlet through the south and to the South Atlantic ports. These new lines are reaching out to resume this business. The Atlanta and Alabama will, when it is finished, be a new link in the Richmond and Danville combination.

EX-SPEAKER RANDALL has made an advance upon Albany. It is to be hoped that in this emergency Mr. Randall may be able to remember that he is a democrat and forget for a moment his Pennsylvania interests.

EDITOR HAY says that Gorham is laboring under a delusion. As Editor Hay fails to use a capital D in this connection, we conclude that the trouble is not serious.

DR. GEORGE B. LORING, the new American LeDook, has a paper in the June North American on "The Patrician Element in American Society." This is very unsatisfactory. What the country wants to know is when to sow its cucumbers.

IF the republicans want harmony they should employ Platt to play of the accordeon.

THE latest information is to the effect that Editor Reid is responsible for the nomination of Judge Robertson. Perhaps Mr. Conkling will find it convenient to take a European tour. At present we are unable to give him Editor Reid's address.

REMARK by Platt—"I came, I saw and Conk. heard." (Loud applause under the counter.)

THERE is a threatened muddle in the democratic party of Maryland. We shall presently have to split the difference with Mr James R Randall and allude to his native clime in such melodious language as his: "What fuss is this? She hums, she hums, and on her shore the bummer bums. My Muddleland! My Muddleland!"

GORHAM says there is a Crisis in the republican party. Its maiden name is Conkling.

THE announcement that Mr. Schurz has assumed editorial control of the New York Evening Post is now authoritatively made. Mr Schurz will probably make a better impression on the public as an editor than as a politician. This is not the era of statesmanship and a statesman, no matter how patriotic he may be, is compelled to surrender in some degree to the unscrupulous exactions of partisanship. Mr. Schurz gained no fame by allying himself with the office holders in the late administration, but he has a wide field before him as editor of the Post. The literary department of the paper will, we presume, still be under the control of Mr. George Cary Eggleston, whose literary judgments are generally accepted as the key note of criticism at the north.

BRADY is of the opinion that the Hayes administration was the best this country has ever seen. It served as a colossal screen for Brady.

DEMOCRATIC maxim—A deadlock in the hand is worth all the beating about the bush.

THE esteemed Macon Repository of Belated Information appears to be of the opinion that there are already too many railroads. What our esteemed contemporary wants is a coach painted yellow and drawn by two bob tail horses. President Cole will please pause in his wild career of giving Macon another road.

ROME is mightily tickled over the railroad situation.

"LET us cover as with a mantle for a moment," says the Washington Republican, "the sad reflections which arise in the breast of every stalwart republican." Is this a general order to the party to put on its pantaloons?

WITH the entire administration in pursuit of Conklingplatt, it is no wonder that this remarkable firm is getting tired.

IT is now rumored that Mr. Blaine is implicated in the Star-route frauds, and that his recent visit to New York was for the purpose of fixing things up. If there is any truth in the rumor Mr. Conkling's friends will be apt to give it a prominent place in the current news of the day.

PLANTATION STORIES.

A Rainy Day With Uncle Remus.*

II.

MR FOX CATCHES MR. HORSE.

There was a pause after the story of old Miss Goose. The culmination was hardly sensational enough to win the hearty applause of the little boy, and this fact appeared to have a depressing influence upon Uncle Remus. As he leaned slightly forward, gazing into the depths of the great fire-place, his attitude was one of pensiveness.

"I 'speck I done wo' out my welcome up at de house," he said, after a while. "I mos' knows I is," he continued, settling himself resignedly in his deep bottomed chair. "Kaze dat las' night, w'iles you wuz sick, en I went 'n' set up wid you, I had my eye on Miss Sally mighty nigh de whole blessid time, en w'en you see Miss Sally rustlin' 'roun' makin' like she fixin' things up dar on de mantle shelf, en bouncin' de cheers 'roun', en breshin' dus' when dey aint no dus', en flyin' 'roun' singin' sorter louden dan common, den I des knows sumpin' done gone en rile 'er.'

"Why, Uncle Remus!" exclaimed the little boy, "mamma was just glad because I was getting well."

"Mout er bin," the old man remarked, in a tone that was far from implying conviction. "Ef 'twa'n't dat, den she wuz gittin' tired er seein' me lounjun' 'roun' up dar night atter night, en ef 'twa'n't dat, den she wuz watchin' a chance fer ter preach ter yo' pa. Oh, I done bin knowz Miss Sally long fo' yo' pa is!" exclaimed Uncle Remus, in response to the astonishment depicted upon the child's face. "I bin knowin' 'er sence she wuz so high, en endurin' er all dat time I aint seed no mo' up'n spoken 'oman dan w'at Miss Sally is.

"But dat aint needer yer ner dar. You done got yo' strenk back, en now youk'n rush down yer des like you useter, en we kin set yer en smoke, en tell tales, en study up 'musement same like we wuz gwine on 'fo' dem doctor mens got der clampers on you. Ef dey wus Brer Fox," the old man continued, "w'ich dey er mighty nigh it, en I wuz ole Brer Rabbit, w'ich I ain't 'sputin' dat I got some er de symptoms, I lay I'd gin dem doctor mens one settin' up—I sho'ly would.

"I mines me er one time"—with an infectious laugh—"w'en ole Brer Rabbit got Brer Fox in de wuss trubble w'at a man wuz mos' ever got in yit, an' dat 'us w'en he fool 'im 'bout de hoss. Aint I never tell you 'bout dat? But no marter ef I is. Hoe cake aint cook done twel hit's turnt over a time or two.

"Well, atter Brer Fox done git rested fum keepin' out er de way er Mr. Dog, en sorter ketch up wid his rations, he say ter hisse'f dat he be dog his cats ef he don't slorate ole Brer Rabbit ef it take 'im a mont'; en dat, too, on top er all de 'spe'unce w'at he done bin had wid um. Brer Rabbit he sorter git win' er dis, en one day, w'iles he gwine 'long de road studyin' how he gwineter hol' his hand wid Brer Fox, he see a great big hoss lyin' stretch out flat on his side in de pastur'; en he tuck'n crope up, he did, fer ter see ef dish yer hoss done gone en die. He crope up en he crope 'roun', en bimeby he see de hoss switch his tail, en den Brer Rabbit know he aint dead. Wid dat, Brer Rabbit lope back ter de big road, en mos' de fus' man w'at he see gwine on by wuz Brer Fox, en Brer Rabbit he tuck atter 'im, en holler:

"'Brer Fox! Oh, Brer Fox! Come back! I got some good news fer you. Come back, Brer Fox,' sezee.

"Brer Fox, he tu'n roun', he did, en w'en he see who callin' 'im, he come gallopin' back, kaze it seem like dat des ez gooder time ez any fer ter nab Brer Rabbit; but 'fo' he git in nabbin' distance, Brer Rabbit he up'n say, sezee:

"'Come on, Brer Fox! I done fine de place whar you kin lay in fresh meat 'nuff fer ter las' you plum twel de middle or nex' year,' sezee.

"Brer Fox, he ax wharbouts, en Brer Rabbit, he say, right over dar in de pastur', en Brer Fox ax w'at is it, en Brer Rabbit, he say w'ich twuz a whole hoss layin' down on de groun' whar dey kin ketch 'im en tie 'im. Wid dat, Brer Fox, he say come on, en off dey put.

"W'en dey got dar, sho' nuff, dar lay de hoss all stretch out in de sun, fas' 'sleep, en den Brer Fox en Brer Rabbit, dey had a 'spute 'bout how day gwineter fix de hoss so he can't git loose. One say one way en de yuther say n'er way, en dar dey had it, twel atter w'ile Brer Rabbit, he say, sezee:

"'De onliest plan w'at I knows un, Brer Fox,' sezee, 'is fer you ter git down dar en lemme tie you ter de hoss' tail, en den, w'en he try ter git up, you kin hol' 'im down,' sezee. 'Ef I wuz big man like w'at you iz,' sez Brer Rabbit, sezee, 'you mout tie me ter dat hoss' tail, en ef I didn't hol' 'im down, den Joe's dead en Sal's a widder. I des knows you kin hol' 'im down,' sez Brer Rabbit, sezee, 'but yit, ef you 'feared, we des better drap dat idee en study out some yuther plan,' sezee.

"Brer Fox sorter jubus 'bout dis, but he bleedzd ter play biggity 'fo' Brer Rabbit, en he tuck'n 'gree ter de progrance, en den Brer Rabbit, he tuck'n tie Brer Fox ter de hoss' tail, en atter he git 'im tie dar hard en fas', he sorter step back, he did, en put his han's 'kimbo, en grin, en den he say, sezee:

"'Ef ever dey wus a hoss kotch, we done kotch dis un. Look sorter like we done put de bridle on de wrong een',' sezee, 'but I lay Brer Fox is got de strenk fer ter hol' 'im,' sezee.

"Wid dat, Brer Rabbit cut 'im a long switch en trim it up, en w'en he git it fix, up he step en hit de hoss a rap—pow! De hoss 'uz dat s'prise at dat kinder doin's dat he make one jump, en lan' on his footses. W'en he do dat, dar wuz Brer Fox danglin' in de a'r, en Brer Rabbit, he dart out de way en holler:

"'Hol' 'im down, Brer Fox! Hol' 'im down! I'll stan' out yer en see fa'r play. Hol' 'im down, Brer Fox!' sezee.

"Co'se, wen de hoss feel Brer Fox hangin' dar onter his tail, he thunk sumpin cu'us wuz de marter, en dis make 'im jump en r'ar wusser en wusser, en he shake up Brer Fox same like he wuz rag in de win', en Brer Rabbit, he jump en holler:

"'Hol' 'im down, Brer Fox! Hol' 'im down! You got 'im now, sho'. Hol' yo' grip, en hol' 'im down!' sezee.

"De hoss, he jump en he hump, en he rip en he r'ar, en he snort en he t'ar. But yit Brer Fox hang on, en still Brer Rabbit skip roun' en holler:

"'Hol' 'im down, Brer Fox! You got 'im wha he can't needer back ner squall. Hol' 'im down Brer Fox', sezee.

"Bimeby, w'en Brer Fox git chance, he holler back, he did:

"'How in de name er goodness I gwineter hol' de hoss down 'less I git my claw in de groun'?'

"Den Brer Rabbit, he stan' back little fudder en holler little louder:

"'Hol' 'im down, Brer Fox! Hol' 'im down! You got 'im now, sho'! Hol' 'im down!'

"Bimeby de hoss 'gun ter kick wid his behime legs, en de fus' news you know, he fetch Brer Fox a lick in de stomach dat fa'rly make 'im squall, en den he kick 'im ag'in, en dis time he break Brer Fox loose, en sont 'im a-whirlin'; en Brer Rabbit, he keep on a-jumpin' 'roun' en hollerin':

"'Hol' 'im down, Brer Fox!'

"Did the fox get killed, Uncle Remus?" asked the little boy.

"He wa'n't 'zackly kilt, honey," replied the old man, "but he wuz de nex' do' ter't. He 'uz all broke up, en w'iles he 'uz gittin' well, hit sorter come 'cross his min' dat Brer Rabbit done play ne'er game on 'im."

Twilight Song.

To A——n G——e.

Twilight is fading,
Soft dews are falling,
Rose-hearts invading,
West winds are calling
My heart from my bosom
To go forth to you.

Starry-eyed flowers,
Whispering "good-night"
To fast fleeting hours,
Close to the dim light,
Their hearts pure and tender,
While mine opes to you.

Birds in the branches
Vespers are singing,
Songs from their hearts are
Ever up-springing.
But sweeter than theirs, is
My heart's song of you.

Night, as though fearing
To silence the singers,
Waits Luna's appearing
To lift with bright fingers
The deep veil of evening
That hides me from you.

I, too, am waiting—
Waiting, I listen;
I see not the moonbeams,
Nor dew-drops that glisten—
My soul all entranced,
Knows nothing but you.

ELAINE.

IN GENERAL.

—Lawrence Barrett will sail for Europe June 10.

—It is now proposed to erect a crematory at New York.

—Mahone has been christened "the lone fisherman of the senate."

—Albany is now known as "Camp Conkling," "Headquarters of the resigners."

—Bob Ingersoll is getting lazy. He hasn't yet annihilated the revised New Testament.

—Jennie June declares for Conkling. "And oh, and oh! The ladies loved him so!"

—It is said of Colonel Tom Scott that he never took business troubles across the threshold of his home.

—The late president of the Peruvian republic is traveling in California with all his family and part of his name.

Four-fifths of the 5,000 bodies that come to the New York morgue every year, are brought there by drunkenness.

—The tunnel under the Hudson river, between New York and New Jersey, is being pushed at the rate of five feet a day.

—It was thirty-seven years ago last Tuesday since the first message was transmitted over a telegraph wire. The message was sent from Washington to Baltimore.

—An amateur blacksmith conceived the idea of nailing horse-shoes on the hind feet of a mule. The man's only son now owns the tools.

—In the Chicago "gozaplezz," Vint is accomplishing the regulation feat of "beating all records." A walk without this would be a flat failure.

—This is the queen's birthday. Her majesty is 62 years of age and her health is such as to discourage her son, Albert Edward.—St. Louis Post-Appeal.

—The farm of Mr Evarts, near Windsor, Vt., is known as "Runnymede." Hon. E. W. Stoughton has a summer residence in the same vicinity.

—A New York paper says that the carpets for Vanderbilt's house have arrived. Probably if William lives economically this year he will be able to buy some wall paper, and have the fence painted next season.

—The New York World has procured at great expense the following copy of "the stalwart ticket:"

THE STALWART TICKET:
FOR SENATOR, ROSCOE CONKLING.
——T. C. Platt.——

—From the extremely hospitable manner in which the duke of Sutherland is being entertained in this country, the probable amount of abuse he will bestow upon it in his book is appalling.

—The cotton seed oil business represents over $10,000,000 of capital. The cotton seeds from the gin houses were formerly used as manure or left to rot in piles. Within the last ten years, however, their value as oil producers has led to the building of over fifty oil mills in the south.

—In the spring the maiden's fancy
Turns to thoughts of making hay—
With a matrimonial view, she
Flirteth much and plays croquet;
But the young man does not tumble,
And with mercenary view,
He considers that it's cheaper
To pay board for one than two.

—The correspondent of the Paris Intransigeant in St. Petersburg, who professes to be equally well informed as to the movements in the palaces and the plans of the nihilists, writes that the empress recently discovered between the leaves of her prayer book a sheet of paper with a pen and-ink drawing on each side. Each sketch represented a gibbet, on one of which Hessy Helfman was seen hanging, and on the other her majesty. Beneath were written the words, "An eye for an eye Your child will meet the same fate as mine." The empress is said to have fainted on reading this lugubrious threat.

The Democrats of Albany.

Boston Post, dem.

The indications are that the democrats at Albany will behave themselves.

Philadelphia Press, rep.

There seems to be a democratic squint in the direction of a coalition at Albany to defeat the administration. It may be only an unfortunate strabismus, or it may mean business. The unterrified are rarely averse to a dicker.

Chicago Times, ind.

In the late session the democrats of the senate behaved discreetly and patriotically. They made no blunders, as is usual with them. Let the democrats at Albany profit by the example. It is not their duty to aid in the washing of republican linen, though they have an interest in the town pump where the laundrying is done.

St. Louis Republican, dem.

Such a transparent bid for democratic support as Conkling makes in giving out that he was opposed to the compact between the republicans of the senate and Mahone will deceive nobody. If Conkling disapproved of the bargain made with Mahone, why did he not give some intimation of it during the two months of deadlock, which he never failed to maintain when his vote was asked? He promises too much and does too little.

New York Herald, ind.

Unless the breach that is thus opened in the republican party is speedily closed up the case is as clear a one as was ever seen in our politics for the democrats to advance to a dominant position in the country through an easy capture of this state. They have not had, since the days of the great cataclysm in which their party was overwhelmed, so promising a chance as opens before them now. Perhaps it would be altogether a good thing for the country if the quarrelling republicans should keep on as they have started and quarrel to the end. We can get on without a party which has no higher conception of its obligation to the people than this one exhibits now. Division between the republican factions in this state, which gives the state to the democrats and so opens the way to their gaining the presidency in 1884, will not by any means be an unmixed evil to the nation.

Chicago Times, ind.

There is but one rational course open for the democrats, and that is to unite at the earliest possible moment with the administration republicans in adjourning the legislature. The Conkling faction are determined to force an election, because they must elect Conkling in this legislature or surrender all hope of witnessing his triumphal return to the senate. The Garfield republicans are not strong enough to choose senators of their own, and some of them are understood to be already in favor of taking an appeal to the people at the November election. All of them would doubtless prefer that course to the re-election of Conkling or the election of any other pronounced stalwart. There is, apparently, a reasonable chance of carrying an adjournment as soon as the warring republican factions have learned each other's strength, if the democrats vote solidly for that way of preventing a deadlock. The latter may hope for decided advantages in the coming election through the rupture in the opposition ranks, if the Conkling fight is carried before the people; but they can expect nothing save mortification and public contempt if their ablest and most vindictive foe is lifted by their efforts out of the slough into which, in his blind fury, he lately plunged.

The Great Exposition.

Sparta Times and Planter.

The cotton exposition is still looming up. It is bound to be such a success that Georgia and the entire south will be proud of it. We wish to suggest to Atlanta right here that if she desires to keep up her well established reputation she must provide room for everybody. She needn't be anyways stingy either in providing, for there is going to be a crowd there, and such a one as Atlanta never saw. We have no doubt in the world about the exposition being a success, but if we go, as we expect to do, we want a place to stay at and a bed to sleep on. It has been a long time since we put at "Sprawls," and that experience taught us that it is not a good place to put up at. It has only one thing to recommend it, and that is the cost of it; but this does not recommend when we consider the after part in the way of doctors bills, etc. Let THE CONSTITUTION continue the good work by keeping the importance of the thing continually before the people of Atlanta, until they shall have built and furnished more hotels.

New York Commercial Bulletin.

Much interest is manifested in this city in the cotton exposition, to be held in Atlanta next October. The reports from Atlanta, received by members of the executive committee here, are of a very encouraging character. Work on the buildings has already commenced. There is every prospect of a large attendance, and the people of Atlanta are preparing for a large influx of visitors. The scheme of the exposition has been considerably extended since its first inception, and though the capital stock was originally fixed at $100 000 more than that will be required, and has already been subscribed. All the eastern cities, as well as Atlanta, have made large subscriptions, and now it is proposed to give the southwest a chance to add to the fund. One of the managers has already departed for St. Louis, Memphis, New Orleans, etc., to enlist support from that quarter.

Besides the exhibition of cotton culture there will be exhibits of domestic cotton goods. Boston and vicinity will make considerable exhibits of this character. Indeed, there is a very active interest in Boston taken in the fair.

A number of prominent New York cotton goods merchants will exhibit. Among those who have already expressed their intention of so doing are Messrs. Wright, Bliss and Fabyan, Messrs. George C. Richardson & Co., and Messrs. Woodward, Baldwin & Co.

Albany Echoes.

Chicago Times.

Conkling is in the hands of his friends, probably to be measured for his coffin.

Chicago Tribune.

After a long forced march from Mexico, Grant will arrive at Albany in time to surrender with the rest of the stalwarts.

Philadelphia Times.

The august Conkling isn't sneering around any just now. He is exercising his able smiling talent on everybody, and between smiles writes begging letters to members of the New York legislature. In this way he is trying to fool people with the notion that he is getting a vindication.

Chicago Times.

There was a man in New York state, and he was wondrous wise. He jumped into a bramble brush, and scratched out both his eyes. (Platt's also.) And when he saw his eyes were out, with all his might and main he jumped into the bramble bush, and tried to scratch 'em in again. (Platt's also.) Up to date, however, the scheme doesn't work.

The Work of the Night.

Watkinsville Advance.

THE CONSTITUTION is an immense concern, and the uninitiated can form no just conception of the magnitude of its business. From our own knowledge it takes from directly after supper until about daylight to work off the several issues of that valuable paper, and that with a double cylinder press, an efficient pressman and attentive feeders. And, then, THE CONSTITUTION always contains something worth reading.

Atlanta not Backward.

Griffin News

Atlanta shows her appreciation of Mr. Cole, the railroad king, so-called, by tendering to him a magnificent banquet. Atlanta is not generally backward in showing her appreciation of those who are interested in her welfare, and that is one secret of her great prosperity.

A New Team.

Philadelphia Chronicle.

Mr. Bob Lincoln and Mr. Tom James are playing their cards as adroitly as anybody. Three years from now Lincoln and James may be a very desirable team.

The Crushed.

Louisville Post.

Mr. Gorham seems to be a crushed comedian, while Mr. Riddleberger presents to the world for the first time the spectacle of a crushed "supe."

Amo.

Boston Transcript

When he told me that he loved me,
'Twas the flowery time of May;
I put roses in my ringlets,
And went singing all the day;
When he told me that he loved me,
In the pleasant month of May!

Still, he told me that he loved me
In the summer time of June.
When the roses blushed the redder,
And the birds were all in tune—
And I blushed (because he loved me)
Redder than the rose of June!

Yes! because I know he loved me,
I went singing with the birds.
All the day I listened to him,
All the night I heard his words,
Dreaming nightly that he loved me,
I was blither than the birds.

But—I didn't know I loved him!
Till I found one summer day
That, in saying how he loved me,
He had wiled my heart away—
Only saying how he loved me
Through the long bright summer day!

Still he told me that he loved me
When the roses fading fell,
And the birds had all forgotten
That sweet tune I've learned so well;
For I loved him, and he loved me,
More than any words can tell!

The Reason Why.

The tonic effect of Kidney-Wort is produced by its cleansing and purifying action on the blood. Where there is a gravelly deposit in the urine, or milky, ropy urine from disordered kidneys, it cures without fail. Constipation and piles readily yield to its cathartic and healing power. Put up in dry vegetable form or liquid (very concentrated), either act prompt and sure.—Troy Budget.

—It can be no surprise to intelligent readers that "the three heavenly witnesses," supposed to be named in I John, vii, 8, a proof test in support of the Trinity, find no place in the revised version. but truth—very truth itself—that H. H. P is the best Liver Medicine ever compounded, and that it has cured more Dyspepsia and Headaches than all other liver regulators and compounds known.

—Brygos was a Greek vase painter who turned his wheel and handled his red paints when Œdipus Tyrannus was written, and one of his cups was sold at auction recently in Paris for $2,400; not a high price, all things considered, for an unquestioned work of one of the great vase painters of the 5th century.

—Messrs. Wrangler Bros., Druggists, Waterloo, Iowa, write: We have been in the drug business for fifteen years in different parts of America, and never before have we sold any medicine that gave such general satisfaction as St. Jacobs Oil, or whose sales could even distantly compare, with the extraordinary "run" which this incomparable remedy enjoys; and in proof of its wonderful efficacy, there would be no trouble whatever for us to obtain five hundred testimonials in favor of St. Jacobs Oil. We renew our personal indorsement of the strong claims of this Great German Remedy, in recommending it to sufferers with rheumatism and all painful diseases.

BAILEY, BANKS & BIDDLE,

is apparent. Here are Diamonds and Gems of all descriptions; Watches of many grades of accuracy and excellence; Beautiful Clocks; Jewelry of Gold and of Silver; and beside all the marvels of the goldsmith's and the silversmith's art, a rare collection of miscellaneous artistic elegancies in bronze, bisque, china, porcelain and faience.

Inspection of such a splendid assortment finds something not only to satisfy but to stimulate the taste, and enables it by the suggestiveness of comparison and the criticism of contrast to select to perfection.

To remedy the inconvenience experienced by persons out of town in making selections, this firm adopted their thorough and prompt system of sending goods by express to those desiring to purchase, allowing inspection of the articles sent and the return of all of them if not satisfactory.

Goods sent in this way are always the newest and best; and the same care is taken to meet the wishes of purchasers and inquirers who seek inexpensive articles as of those who purchase the most costly.

PATENT MEDICINES.

KIDNEY-WORT

DOES WONDERFUL CURES! WHY?

Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and Female Complaints.

SEE WHAT PEOPLE SAY:

Eugene B. Stork, of Junction City, Kansas, says, Kidney-Wort cured him after regular Physicians had been trying for four years.

Mrs. John Arnall, of Washington, Ohio, says her boy was given up to die by four prominent physicians and that he was afterwards cured by Kidney-Wort.

M. M. B. Goodwin, an editor in Chardon, Ohio, says he was not expected to live, being bloated beyond belief, but Kidney-Wort cured him.

Anna L. Jarrett of South Salem, N. Y., says that seven years suffering from kidney troubles and other complications was ended by the use of Kidney-Wort.

John B. Lawrence of Jackson, Tenn., suffered for years from liver and kidney troubles and after taking "barrels of other medicines," Kidney-Wort made him well.

Michael Coto of Montgomery Center, Vt., suffered eight years with kidney difficulty and was unable to work. Kidney-Wort made him "well as ever."

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, Constipation and Piles.

It is put up in Dry Vegetable Form in tin cans, one package of which makes six quarts of medicine. Also in Liquid Form, very Concentrated, for those that cannot readily prepare it.

It acts with equal efficiency in either form.

THE END OF THE WORLD.

Predicted by Proctor and Indorsed by Many as to Occur This Year.

A Scientific Issue Taken by Others and of Little Comfort to the Adventists.

Some Matters of Great Importance Which are Occurring and Require Care.

Everything indicates important events the present year. The unusually severe winter; the floods which have followed it and the prospectively intense summer are all significant. And while there are no grounds for apprehending the "end of the world" there is reason why care and caution should be used on every hand. The end of the world is liable to come to very many who do not carefully guard their lives and especially should the kidneys and liver be kept in perfect order at this very season. How this can most effectually be done may be judged by the following statement, which is one of thousands of similar nature:

Rev. J. E. Rankin, D. D., of Washington, whose experience in this direction is both extended and valuable, has made the following statement:

"I have known of several persons who regarded themselves as greatly benefited and some of them as permanently cured of diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs by Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I have known, too, of its use in similar cases by physicians of the highest character and standing. I do not doubt that it has great virtue. This treatment I want, in the interests of humanity, to recommend."

These are certainly times which try the constitutions of the most hardy and it is imperative if life and health are desired that care should be exercised. Do not delay; life may depend upon it; health and happiness certainly will.

BILL ARP'S LETTER.

Written for The Constitution.

Working in the field a hot sultry day is no joke. I've tried it. There's nothing funny about it. Its not a hilarious or exhilerating business. Its not productive of wit or anecdote. Its nothing but a fact, a solemn fact. I remember reading about some ethereal chap who doubted everything and wasent certain that he lived, and it occurred to me that the best way in the world to knock the romance out of a man and settle his faith was to put him to hard work in the field hoeing corn or chopping cotton. By the time night comes he will be convinced he is somebody and will be willing to rest and eat and go to bed. I believe it would prevent suicides and restore the lunatics to their proper senses. The trouble is, most people work too little and think too much. The muscles are neglected and the brain is overtaxed. I like work, nevertheless, fact or no fact. The rest that follows it is a positive luxury, and the appetite it gives a man makes him enjoy his vittels and he dont come poking along when the dinner bell rings and look over the table to see whether it suits him or not in quality or variety, but he comes with a willing alacrity and sits down and goes to work. Hog and hominy is as good as quail on toast. If I had Marcellus Thornton out here I'd give him an appetite that would run longer than thirty days and make a useful man of him. He is a good feller and there's gum in him, but his talents have never taken the right direction. He has been overworking his brain, and farming would restore him and develop a fine performer on the hoe and the chop-ax.

My boys hinted around last week that they were getting behind with the work—that there was thirty acres of corn to hoe, and the bud worm was doing damage in the bottom, and there was three acres of cotton to chop out, and a patch of new ground to sprout, and the potato slips to plant, and they needed another field-hand mighty bad, and so on, and couldn't get out for love nor money, and so Mrs. Arp she looked at me, and I looked at her and remarked, "Where there is a will there is a way," and I'll furnish you a good hand for a week. So I volunteered for the service myself, and shouldered my hoe like a high private. You see I've been sorter bossing around and tendin' to the garden and wearing an officer's epaulettes, working when I felt like it and dignifying myself with age and playing patriarch, but when the pinch comes I can't stand back, and I won't. So I've tried it a week, and I'm now as stiff and sore as an old horse. When I set down I don't want to get up, and the beauty of it is when I get to work I don't want to quit. There's an inertia about it that keeps an old man going. I didn't know it before, but Cobe told me that it was so with him. He dident want to go to work in the morning and it most killed him to get at it, but when he did get fairly squared to it, and the muscles got to moving like a machine he dident know how to stop 'em and was the last one to quit the field. I've hoed corn and cotton now for six days steady, and can cut out a stork without skeering a fly off of a twin one that grew out from the same root. There's nothing like getting the slight of the thing. A sharp, square-edged hoe and a good eye and a true stroke is all that's wanted. Then you must haye good judgment and quick judgment about what storks to leave and what to cut out. One cut off with the cut worm will come out again, but the bud worm sucks its heart out and you had just as well cut it up and replant. When a man gets tired hoeing corn let him chop out cotton for a change, and when he gets tired of that let him spend the shank of the evening in putting out potato slips. We put out a thousand or so every day, and I've seen things I'd rather do, for it's a hard business on an old man's back. If it don't cure him of spinal affection it will give it to him if he keeps it up regular, and I feel like I have a touch of it now. It wears out the fingers to scratch the holes in the ground and press the dirt around the plant, and there must be left a little cup to pour the water in, and after it is poured in the dry dirt must be pulled over it to keep the sun from baking it, for we are not having any rain in these parts now to save us that trouble. Its no peculiar fun to straddle a potato ridge and with your feet a yard apart and your back at right angles to 'em waddle along to the end of it putting in slips, and by the time you are done with the job most any other kind of work would be an agreeable change—digging post holes would be gay and festive. But still I like work—farm work; I like its variety; its something new every day; you change your base and then you see the result of your labors. The corn grows and the long rows look so straight and clean and ornamental. The wheat fields are now in all their glorious beauty and the oats have caught up and are in the head. It looks like the farmers will work a pretty fair crop of both—rain or no rain—and there is no sign of rust as yet. The truth is we don't need rain except for the oats, for it is a good sign of a good crop to have a dry May. The corn and cotton don't grow off as fast as we would like it, but the roots are reaching down for moisture and taking strong hold, and by-and-by when the rain does come it goes off all the faster, and if a drought comes it can stand it better than if it grew up rapidly with sap from early rains.

So take it all in all, everybody is doing pretty well, and the country ought to be happy. The farmers are doing well, and Brady says the money men are doing well, and the mechanicks are doing well, and the merchants are doing well, and the democrats are doing well, and now May is almost gone and none of those terrible things that the prophets predicted have come to pass, and everything looks serene and lovely. Our wheat harvest will come off in two weeks and we are going to reap it with a bran new machine and have a big frolic. If you want to see it come up Tell Howell and Harris we want a couple of binders to follow the reaper, for we will be short of hands. I'll give 'em a dollar a day and board. Howell used to be a good hand, I know, for he told me he could bind a sheaf and throw it up and bind another be ore it come down. That's the kind of a man I want. Harris could do it, too, I reckon, if he could throw the first one so high it wouldn't come down at all. Yours,

BILL ARP.

A Live Merchant and a Place of Active Business.

We have heard many of our business men during the last ten days, complain that trade was dull. These gentlemen looked as if they felt the full force of the declaration in their own business. But there is one merchant and one house in Atlanta, bearing constant evidences that trade is not dull everywhere. If there be no other exception it may certainly be found with Mr. W. H. Brotherton, and in his splendid establishment, at the corner of Whitehall and Mitchell streets. This competent merchant is always at his post, surrounded with a score of active clerks who are pressed all the while with the demands of customers. A scene of activity prevails there from day to day, and week to week—crowds come and go continually, bearing away the bargains obtained form this place of bargains. There never was a swarm of bees kept more thoroughly busy than the salesmen at Mr. Brotherton's, and their labors are fruitful, for it is seldom that a visitor leaves without making some purchase.

Large capital, a familiar acquaintance with the details of his business, good taste in the selection and good sense in the purchase of his stocks, together with a reputation for fair dealing, secure Mr Brotherton a large and constantly increasing trade.

There is no house in Atlanta that is better adapted to an extensive business in the line of staple and fancy dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, hats, etc. It was planned by the proprietor for his own purposes and built with his own money under his direct supervision. There is plenty of room for the division of his business into the proper departments, and this has been elegantly accomplished. Goods are all properly arranged so that clerks can place their hands upon any desired article in a moment, and not detain customers unnecessarily. Receptacles of fine and fancy goods have been provided at large expense, and the establishment in all of its appointments is a model which has not yet been equaled in this city.

An Old Doctor's Advice.

It was this: "Trust in God and keep your bowels open." For this purpose many an old doctor has advised the habitually costive to take Kidney Wort—for no other remedy so effectually overcomes this condition, and that without the distress and griping which other medicines cause. It is a radical cure for piles. Don't fail to use it.—Translated from the New Yorker Zeitung.

THE COTTON MARKET

CONSTITUTION OFFICE, Atlanta, May 28, 1881

New York—Futures opened steady without material change, though early in the day a firm tone was reported and prices began to advance. The general undertone shows considerable improvement, and higher prices are predicted for next week. At the close the market still retained its firmness with futures up some 6@8 points. Spots advanced 1-16c and closed firm: middling 10⅞c.

Net receipts to-day amount to 5,482 bales, against 2,592 bales last year; exports 17,020 bales; last year 6,275 bales; stock 481,399 bales; last year 436,600 bales.

Below we give the opening and closing quotations of cotton futures in New York to-day:

Restored to Life.

From the Hot Springs Sentinel, May 10th.

Scarcely any citizen or visitor has failed to notice upon our streets a colored man by the name of Charles Peters, who came to this city about four weeks ago, the most wretched and pitiable of all humanity. Our attention was arrested by his presence upon our streets on last Saturday afternoon in the full regalia of the S. S. S. Company; and upon inquiry as to its meaning, we were informed by Mr. Johnson, the agent here, that he had adopted this plan, to ocular demonstrate and satisfy skeptics of the wonderful curative powers of the S. S. S. medicine. Here is a case that the company can point to with pride and satisfaction, and say, away with skepticism!

What the Druggists Say

Helena, Ark., May 17, 1881.

We have sold two gross S. S. S. in the last few months, and it gives better satisfaction to our customers than anything of the kind we have ever handled.

JACKSON & CO, Druggists.

St. Joseph, Mo., May 16, 1881.

Within the last nine months I have sold at retail two gross S. S. S. It has given entire satisfaction to everybody.

R. A. BRITTAIN, Druggist.

Louisville, Ky., May 17, 1881.

We have handled four gross S. S. S. in the last few months, and have never had a complaint of it.

ARTHUR PETER & CO.

Memphis, Tenn., May 16, 1881.

Your S. S. S. is selling rapidly and gives universal satisfaction. From the many gross sold during the past year we have nothing but favorable reports, and believe it to be a specific indeed for the purpose intended.

G. W. JONES & CO.

Dallas, Texas, May 14, 1881.

I have sold at retail in four months over a gross S. S. S., and have watched its effects very closely, and to every one who has used it, it has given entire satisfaction. I have seen it used in the primary, in the secondary and in the tertiary stages, and in each with the most wonderful effect. I have seen it stop the hair from falling out in a very short time. I advise all sufferers to take it and be cured. Yours truly,

W. H. PATTERSON, Druggist.

Sherman, Texas, May 17, 1881.

I have sold at retail two and a half gross S. S. S. in less than a year. It has given entire satisfaction to every one.

A. B. RICHARDS, Druggist.

Richmond, Va., May 14, 1881.

We have sold two gross S. S. S. in the past six months, and it has given universal satisfaction.

R. W. POWERS & CO., Druggists.

Little Rock, Ark., May 13, 1881.

I have handled two gross S. S. S. in a short time, and it has given perfect satisfaction.

C. J. LINCOLN, Druggist.

Washington, D. C., May 12, 1881.

Your S. S. S. has given better satisfaction than any medicine we have ever sold. Have handled two gross at retail in the past six months.

SCHELLER & STEVENS, Druggists.

Danville, Va., May 13, 1881.

We have never handled anything which gave better satisfaction to our customers than your S. S. S.

CLARKE & SCLATER, Druggists.

Jackson, Tenn., May 14, 1881.

Your S. S. S. sells better than anything of the kind that we have ever sold, and the boys say it does the business.

S. W. WHITAKER & CO., Druggists.

Galveston, Texas, May 17, 1881.

You may enter our order for five thousand ($5,000) dollars worth of S. S. S., and make the first shipment at once, as our stock is being rapidly reduced.

THOMPSON, GEORGE & CO., Wholesale Druggists.

We might go on in this way and fill the whole paper with flattering letters from dealers, who are in all cases excellent judges of the merit of an article. We do not publish certificates from individuals for this disease. We say to all who have any sort of BLOOD disease, take S. S. S. It will cure you. If you are skeptical come to see us, and we will cure you or charge you nothing.

$1,000 REWARD

will be paid to any chemist who will find on analysis of one hundred bottles of S. S. S. one particle of mercury, iodide potassium, or any mineral substance.

Ask your druggist for a copy of

THE YOUNG MAN'S FRIEND

If he cannot furnish it, send to us and it will be mailed to you free.

HOLMES'S LINIMENT —OR THE MOTHER'S FRIEND.

ONE OF THE GREATEST COMFORTS TO THOSE EXPECTING TO BE CONFINED

Is a remedy upon which implicit confidence can be placed—one that will produce a safe and quick delivery—one that will control pain, and shorten the duration of Labor. Such is "THE MOTHER'S RELIEF." Try it, and see what

A BLESSING IT IS TO SUFFERING FEMALES.

This Liniment, when used for two or three weeks before confinement, produces wonderful effect, causing a very easy and quick labor, with comparatively little pain, and leaves the mother in condition to recover quickly—or, in other words, to have a good getting up. Under its use, labor will ordinarily occupy much less than the usual time, and the suffering be diminished beyond expression.

The condition for which this remedy is offered is of such a character as to forbid a long array of certificates. Those interested in its use are respectfully referred to the hundreds who have used it.

READ THE TESTIMONIALS.

I most earnestly entreat every female expecting to be confined to use "THE MOTHER'S RELIEF." Coupled with this entreaty, I will add, that during a large obstetrical practice, (forty-four years) I have never known it to fail to produce a safe and quick delivery.

H. J. HOLMES, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

A lady from one of the counties of Middle Georgia, who has been acting Midwife for many years, writes: "I have disposed of all the Mother's Relief you sent me, and I AM DELIGHTED WITH IT. In every instance where it has been used, its effects have been all that I could ask. I CONSIDER IT A GREAT BLESSING."

A gentleman writes: "My wife used the bottle of 'Mother's Relief' procured from you. She was considerably advanced in life before this, her first confinement, and she KNOWS it was the means of very greatly lessening her suffering, if, indeed, it was not THE MEANS OF SAVING HER LIFE."

Another gentleman writes: "My wife used your 'Mother's Relief' at her fourth confinement, and her testimony is that she passed through it with one-half the suffering of either of her former confinements, and recovered from its effects in much less time. She also recommended it to a lady friend who was about to be confined for the first time, and she says: 'I HAVE NEVER SEEN ANY ONE PASS THROUGH THIS GREAT TRIAL WITH SO LITTLE SUFFERING.'"

The names of all these, and many others, can be had by Having had the foregoing remedy Thoroughly Tested my patrons as possessing superior merits. Prepared by

Who are anxious to dress in the most fashionable styles will do well to call at the office of the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Company, No. 71 Whitehall street, and examine the June styles just received. It is quite unnecessary to speak of the great popularity of Mme. Demorest's Perfect Fitting Paper Patterns, as every lady who patronizes the most artistically designed garments for herself or children is aware that the styles of Mme. Demorest are not equaled by any fashions published. There are some very elegant new designs in Ladies,' Misses and Children's garments; especially the trimmed suits and traveling garments.

The Summer publications are ready for those who desire them at the Fashion Counter of the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Company.

R. B. Hall, druggist, Macon, Ga.—I have prescribed Sanodine in a case of foul, unhealthy ulcer of the leg, of large size, and fifteen years standing. In a few days after commencing its use the ulcer assumed a healthy appearance, and the process of granulation commenced. In two weeks I found that cicatrization had considerably advanced. I then lost sight of the case, fully assured, however, that a continuation of the treatment would result in speedy and permanent cure.
